HOOVER JABS OPPONENTS IN RECENT NOTE

THOMPSON LETTER IS PLEA FOR PUBLIC SUPPORT

Washington, Jan. 14—The adventure in philosophy which President Hoover undertook in his correspondence with Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State university, caused no end of curiosity here today.

Dealing in implicit phrases and centralizations, it was difficult to determine just what forces of criticism and what groups of partisans Mr. Hoover had in mind as he ironically paid his respects to their "strategems."

The president's communication might be regarded as an answer to many things that have happened and many comments that have been made, but Mr. Hoover refrained from becoming too specific. When he refers to "partisans desirous that the president should fail," the general assumption is that he refers to his opponents in congress, though it must be said that these have not been confined to any one political party and that Mr. Hoover's troubles have come as much from the division in the Republican ranks as from the Democrats.

Capital Is Guessing.

Undoubtedly Mr. Hoover had in mind some of the newspapers which are editorially opposed to phases of his foreign policies but there again his words were so general that he left the capital guessing more or less as to whom he really meant. It is a fact that the president has been annoyed by the efforts of the lobby committee to involve him as having acquiesced in some of the machinations of the sugar interests and it is quite possible that he is taking a fling at some of his critics in that regard.

Nevertheless, the somewhat cynical reference to "certain individuals, newspapers, associations and institutions" which multiply the troubles of a president was not lost on the president's audience here any more than his defense of boards and commissions as a means of getting at the truth.

Resents Criticism.

Mr. Hoover, according to the gossip of the capital, has for several years, been spoken of as a man who resented criticism and it was freely predicted before he went to the White House that he would be sensitive on

Work of Lobbies Is 'Simple Graft'; Hoover Absolved

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Lobbying activities in Washington were described to the senate today as "simple graft" by Chairman Caraway, of the lobby investigating committee, as he presented a report estimating that more than $400,000 had been expended by those interested in the pending sugar tariff controversy.

"Business man might just as well go to a palm reader of a crystal gazer and have the future of legislation foretold," Senator Caraway observed after the committee's report was read, "as to put their money in the so-called publicity agents and these lobbyists we see here in Washington."

The report absolved President Hoover of any impropriety in connection with any attempt he might have made to bring sugar interests together on a proposed sliding scale for sugar duties.

PARROT DISEASE?

Psittacosis, the rare malady contracted from handling parrots, which has caused five deaths in the United States, holds no fears for Senorita Rosalmaria Colomo, employed at the Pan-American Union building at Washington. She is shown here with "Old Soak", Secretary of State Stimson's pet parrot, which has been placed in the Pan-American building while Stimson is attending the London naval conference.

DETROIT UNDER A NEW REGIME

Mayor Bowles Takes Helm; Pledges Reduced Taxation

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP)—Better police protection, a war on the underworld; elimination of blind pigs, particularly those near schools; improved financing and a new city hall were policies and hopes outlined in the inaugural address of Mayor Charles Bowles before the city council tonight.

The mayor also pledged himself to improved street car and bus service, saying that if an increase in fare is necessary to furnish adequate service, this course would be followed without hesitation.

A short term loan of $25,000,000 will be necessary to meet the city's needs, Mayor Bowles said, in discussing the present deficit.

The new mayor was formally inducted into office at 8:30 a. m. today by Richard W. Reading, clerk.

The retiring mayor, John C. Lodge, was present to congratulate Mayor Bowles and hand over to him his badge of office.

Face Deficit

Among the first problems facing the new mayor were several major appointments and consider-

Explosion Wrecks Gas Plant; Employe Killed, One Hurt

Shenandoah, Iowa, Jan. 14 (AP)—An explosion, from an unknown cause, today badly damaged the city gas plant, killing one man, injuring another, and shattering windows in homes and business houses for blocks around. Virgil Bettis, 35, was the man killed and Hugh Shadduck, the only other person in the plant at the time, was injured.

The explosion tore out the entire east wall of the two story plant and so damaged the remainder of the building and plant that attempts to repair them were believed futile.

Residents of the entire city were thrown into a near panic by the explosion. They rushed into the streets believing either the building in which they were or the structure next door had exploded, so terrific was the blast.

Officials of the Iowa Light and Power company, owners of the plant, estimated it would take from six weeks to six months to replace the plant. They indicated they would stand the expense of repairing homes and business houses and placed an estimate of $60,000 as the loss to the plant itself.

Michigan Widow Fleeced, Sues 6

Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (AP)—Odelaide Fleckenstein, 64, Ionia, Mich., widow, took the stand in municipal court today against six men and women, charged with obtaining $14,000 from her in an Arizona land fraud. She said she met the defendants through a mutual interest in rugs.

Parrot Fever Death List Mounts; Report 50 Cases of Odd Malady

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Federal health officials viewed with concern tonight the additional deaths and illnesses attributed in press reports to the strange malady contracted from parrots, psittacosis.

With four new deaths reported, the list mounted to five. At the same time, fifteen other cases of serious illness believed to be what is called parrot's fever were reported, bringing those on which the public health service has information almost to 50.

The malady appeared in several widely-separated cities shortly after the Christmas holidays. The deaths reported today were those of Miss Catherine Tierney, 67, housekeeper of a Toledo church pastoral residence; Mrs. William Burns, who died in Baltimore hospital; Mrs. Leon F. Swears, Johnston, N. Y. and one person of a Hollis, Queensborough, New York family, whose name was withheld.

The deaths of Mrs. Louis Schaffle, in Baltimore last Friday, and of Mrs. William Shields, in Pittsburgh last week, were attributed to the disease.

4 In Family Ill

In Toledo, the city health commissioner is investigating three new suspected cases. The four-year-old grand-daughter of Mrs. Shields is seriously ill in Pittsburgh, and her sickness as well as that of Mrs. Shield's 18-year-old daughter was considered likely to be psittacosis.

Dr. Charles Bolduan, of the New York health department, today revealed the death on January 7 in the Queensborough family. Four other members of this family are now seriously ill with what is thought to be the same malady.

At New Haven, Connecticut, Mrs. Alice Hotchkiss, 50, was reported to be in a critical condition from what was thought to be the same disease.

NEW TROUBLES IN PROHIBITION

Illinois Wet Wants Repeal of Eighteenth Amendment

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Willing house leaders concentrated today on President Hoover's assignment to revamp the ways and means of enforcing prohibition.

The manifold program of the administration and the law enforcement commission submitted to congress yesterday served to quiet the wet and dry talk as all sides sought to assimilate it; but by nightfall there were signs of new trouble.

Ignored Industrial Leaks

Republican drys in the senate who have been critical of the Hoover policies were silent. It was pointed out privately by some, however, that no cognizance was taken in the reports received from the White House and the law enforcement commission of the demands for a cleaning out of personnel or of complaints against leaks of industrial alcohol.

While administration leaders in the house were introducing the first of legislative proposals asked by Mr. Hoover—transfer of the prohibition enforcement agency from the treasury to the justice department—a Republican wet, representative Sabath, of Illinois, was offering a measure for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

STATE SENATOR NOT CANDIDATE

Seeks Re-election; Not Lieutenant Governor Possibility

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP)—One possible candidate for lieutenant governor removed himself from the field today when State Senator Ernest T. Colon, of Grand Rapids, announced that he will be a candidate to succeed himself as senator from the sixteenth district.

Senator Conlon, who was here in connection with Michigan Sportsmen's conference, had started earlier in the year he had been "asked by friends to enter the field for lieutenant governor."

Sink in Field

His announcement today, he said, was definite in his intent to remain in the field for senator. The senator indicated he may seek the other office at some other future stage of his political career.

Senator Charles A. Sink, of Ann Arbor, is the only person, who has definitely announced he will be a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Mother, Daughter Die In Explosion Of Kerosene Lamp

Portsmouth, Ohio, Jan. 14 (AP)—Fire which followed the explosion of a kerosene lamp today claimed the lives of Mrs. Goldie Boldman, 30, and her two year old daughter, Nellie.

The explosion occurred at the Boldman home at Duck Run near here. Nellie was trapped in the flames that spread so quickly through the interior of the house. Mrs. Boldman attempted to rescue the child but was so badly burned that she died several hours later. The home was destroyed.

HURRICANE AT SEA

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 14 (AP)—A terrific hurricane in the Black Sea today forced many vessels to sek shelter in ports. Many calls for assistance were received.

ASK STATE TO ACQUIRE DEER HUNTING LAND

SOURCE WOULD BE FEES PAID IN LICENSES

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP)—Michigan sportsmen today renewed their efforts to bring about legislation for the purchase of public hunting grounds and refuges from the proceeds of hunting licenses.

Thirty delegates to the state sportsmen's conference approved a proposed legislative bill to set aside $50,000 for next year, $10,000 for 1932 and $200,000 for each succeeding year for public hunting grounds. The proposal states that not more than 10 per cent of the hunting license fund shall be spent the first year, not more than 20 per cent in 1932, and not more than 40 per cent for succeeding years.

Lost In Legislature

The effort is a repetition of a fight by sportsmen last year during the legislative session for a hunting refuge fund. At the sportsmen's conference at that time, the project carried by one vote but conservation officials immediately disapproved the plan. It failed to get by the legislature.

The proposed bill also provides that taxes on all lands taken for game refuge purposes and for depredations of the bear shall be taken from the hunters' license fund. P. S. Lovejoy, head of the game division of the state conservation department, informed sportsmen the state had spent $150,000 in the last thirty months on refuge lands. Sportsmen countered with the claim that they paid $552,000 a year in licenses.

Revise Open Seasons

Other reforms advocated by the sportsmen included: An investigation into the possibility of leasing lands in the upper peninsula for deer hunting refuges; a change in the hunting season of woodcock, pheasants, prairie chickens and fox squirrel to October 15-31, with the same bag limit as at present; a coon season from November 1 to 15 with a bag limit of ten, a duck season from October 1 to December 31 and a mink trapping season during the Muskrat season.

House passed anuual war department supply bill.

Senate agreed to vote on increased sugar tariff proposed by noon Thursday.

Congressional leaders set about carrying out President Hoover's assignment to remodel prohibition enforcement machinery.

Home Destroyed; Children All Die

Hull, Quebec, Jan. 14 (AP)—Three children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed their home.

The dead, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Parisee, were: Jean Paul, 5; Paulette, 2, and Adrienne, 8 months.

2 MEN FROZEN IN CALIFORNIA

Food Supplies Moved to 400 Marooned in Mountains

San Francisco, Jan. 14 (AP)—Two men were found frozen to death today in California, one in the north and one south, as the United States weather bureau here predicted a lull in the storms which have swept all parts of the state in the last week.

The body of Jack Storie was found on the Butler Valley road east of Eureka, near the state's northern boundary. A rancher named Johnson was found dead in his cabin on the Mojave desert of Southern California, marooned there by a four foot snowfall.

The state generally was pelted with rain or snow, depending upon altitude, in the past 24 hours.

The Arrowhead Chamber of Commerce today asked the United States forest service for aid in moving food supplies to 400 persons snowbound at Arrowhead Lake in the San Bernardino mountains.

Vote Sugar Bounty Tariff By Thursday

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Opponents of an increased sugar tariff and those favoring a bounty in its stead held the center of attention for another entire session today in the senate, which agreed just before recessing to vote on the question not later than noon Thursday.

While not coming out flatly for a bounty, Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the Republican Independents, disputed the arguments that a higher levy would benefit domestic cane and beet sugar growers. He contended that an increased tariff would bring no relief so long as existing American relations with the Cuban and the Philippines continued, and said he saw no prospects of these conditions changing for some time to come.

Floods Menace Lowlands as Rain Swells Branches of Mississippi

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Approach of a new rainstorm from the west to add to the deluge which already is sweeping down the Mississippi and its tributaries inundating thousands of acres of lowlands, added gravity to the high water situation in the lower valley today as the first levee dynamiting of the present rise was reported. Levees, however, were holding fast.

Interior streams already were at or near the flood stage, while the big river itself crept up to 31.5 feet at Memphis, only .35 feet below flood stage, with 33.5 feet predicted for Sunday. At Cairo, near the mouth of the Ohio, gauges showed 40.9 feet, 4.5 feet below flood stage, with 43 feet in prospect for Sunday.

Levees Holding

At the office of the United States engineers here it was stated that levees along the Mississippi were capable of easily withstanding the pressure of all water now in sight.

The resort to dynamite was reported today from Quitman county, Mississippi. Unidentified persons last night blasted a gap 20 feet wide in a roadway fill across Cassidy Bayou, two miles southwest of the town of Belen. Search for the dynamiters was futile.

Water backed up against the fill had spread over a wide section about Belen.

Send Sandbags

In eastern Arkansas the situation at Big Lake—one of the focal points of the high water fight—was reported improved with the arrival of a shipment of 5,000 sandbags. Within the next 24 hours upwards of 7,500 earth-filled sacks are to be placed on

FARM RICHES

Taking in $120,000 annually as the net return from farming 3100 acres, Miss Charlotte F. Worley, of Box county, Nebraska, is termed the most successful farmerette in the United States. Once a lawyer—she received her degree from the University of Nebraska in 1904—she took to dirt farming on a large scale and prospered. She keeps from 20 to 40 hired men and uses three tractors and 80 horses to work her farm.

PAYCAR BLAST CLUES SOUGHT

Dynamite Found; Believe 15 Sticks Caused Tragedy

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 14 (AP)—Police tonight still were seeking clues to aid in the capture of the bandits who dynamited a Glen Alden coal company paycar and killed four men near tunnel 20 in Hanover township late Monday afternoon.

A package of dynamite was found today a short distance from where the bandits had their battery planted. The package was one that had been missing from a Truesdale magazine since last November and contained 32 stick of dynamite. Three unexploded sticks also were found in clearing up the explosion wreckage. Originally the package contained 50 sticks and police believe 15 sticks caused the mighty blast that caused the tragic killings.

At Nanticoke state hospital Fred W. Pfaff, 60, of Scranton, injured in the blast was reported to be slightly improved. His injuries were so serious, however, it was necessary to amputate both legs.

John Sookil, 45, one of the pay car guards, also is at the hospital, but his injuries are not serious.

CORNER THUGS IN APARTMENT

Policeman and Two Others Die in Chicago Gun Fight

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP)—A crude, home-made burglar alarm early today gave a warning that sent police speeding to a west side apartment where two men accused of burglary and one policeman were shot to death in a gun fight that followed. Edward Conroy, a police lieutenant was wounded and Samuel Waterman, a burglar suspect was captured.

The dead:

Samuel Wolf, Chicago.

R. Holtzman, owner of a vegetable and meat market at Hoopston, Ill.

Jerry Murphy, a Chicago policeman.

The police cornered the men in the apartment of Harry Sucherman, an official of a sausage factory. Sucherman said they awoke him after cutting a panel in the back door of his apartment. He remained outwardly calm, he said, as they demanded his money and his wife's jewelry.

Chief Justice On Way To Asheville

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Chief Justice Taft entrained for Asheville, North Carolina, tonight for a rest to recuperate his strength from weakness induced by bladder trouble. He had spent the last week undergoing treatment at Garfield hospital.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Taft, Doctor Thomas A. Claytor, his regular physician, and a nurse.

Urge Death Knell Of Big Battleship

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Seventy seven Labor members of the house of commons today signed a statement urging the British delegates to the forthcoming naval conference to "make abolition of battleships and warships over 10,000 tons, one of the principal aims of the conference."

The signatories also urged that in event of a disagreement of a minority of the great powers the British delegates consider whether or not Great Britain might not take a strong lead by announcing that she would not build any more warship of more than 10,000 ton limit of the standard "Washington cruiser."

THREE PLANES NEAR SPOKANE

Michigan Snowbirds Scattered, Find Plenty of Trouble

Great Falls, Mont., Jan. 14 (AP)—Twenty-two planes of the Arctic Patrol, sent out to test winter flying conditions between Selfridge Field, Mich., and Spokane, tonight were scattered along a 1,300 mile snow covered front.

The maneuver was extended about 300 miles farther west today when three pursuit ships left Havre, Montana, to cross the continental divide at an altitude of 13,000 feet and land at Kalispell, about 170 miles by air line from Spokane.

Mist in Highlands

A flight of 400 miles by a transport plane piloted by Lieut. P. E. Shannahan from Minot, N. D., to Havre, Mont., marked the only other progress made by the fliers today. Thirteen pursuit planes that landed here yesterday after a flight of about 550 miles from Minot, today postponed a projected hop to Spokane because of trouble with motors and reports that passes over the continental divide were shrouded in mist.

Major Ralph Royce, commander of the squadron, who led the planes to Great Falls yesterday, said that delay of the transport ships carrying warming devices and mechanics had contributed materially to difficulties encountered.

Try Again Today

"We started out looking for trouble and we found it," said Major Royce. "We have learned that proper equipment must be available for long flights in extreme cold."

He said the ships here would attempt to take off for Spokane via Kalispell tomorrow morning.

Reports to Major Royce, supplemented by reports from Associated Press correspondents, tonight showed the positions of the 22 planes that left Selfridge Field Friday as follows:

Kalispell, three pursuit ships; Great Falls, 13 pursuit; Havre, one transport; Hosey Ranch, 70 miles northeast of here, one pursuit ship forced down yesterday by engine trouble; Minot, one transport with a broken axle and one pursuit, disabled by a broken crank case; Wausau, Wis., one transport, and Amasa, Mich., one transport.

An Associated Press dispatch from Minot said the Douglas transport plane there hopes to hop westward tomorrow.

Marquette Lifer Paroled To Face Missouri Murder

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP)—A temporary parole will be issued shortly to James McGawley, alias James Barry, Marquette lifer, at Marquette branch prison, for his return to Missouri to stand trial on a murder charge. McGawley has been indicted on four criminal counts, including that of murder.

McGawley was sentenced last August from Detroit for life imprisonment on a robbery armed charge. Missouri officials at that time were told by Arthur D. Wood, commissioner of pardons and paroles, that he would be returned to their state to answer the pending murder charge.

Junkers Releases Seized Ford Ship

Dessau, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP)—Word was received today from Seville that the Spanish courts had released under bond of 150,000 pesetas (about $15,000) the airplane manufactured by the Ford interests of Detroit which was seized about a month ago under injunction proceedings brought by the Junkers company.

At the Junkers works here today it was said the civil suit for alleged infringement of Junkers patents would be pressed in the Spanish courts.

HUNGER TURNS MEN OF CHINA TO CANNIBALS

BODIES OF DEAD EATEN BY WOLVES

Shanghai, Jan. 14 (AP)—Harrowing stories of wholesale cannibalism were added today to the tales of horror recounted of famine and cold that are reported to have taken 2,000,000 lives in China within eight months. Another 2,000,000 persons are said to be doomed to die by starvation.

Typhus, grim sister of famine, is charged with the death of unnumbered thousands and 3,000,000 Mohammedan fanatics are accused of massacring all adult males of numerous villages of Kansu province.

George Andrews, a missionary born in Kansu province and just returned from nine months of relief work there, said that famine, disease and exposure in Kansu, Shensi and Shansi provinces had caused one of the most terrible situations ever experienced in China in which plagues of disease and famine are common and life is cheap.

Failure of crops last year and no seeds planted for the coming season together with below zero weather in the Yangtse valley and North China were ascribed by Andrews as causes for the widespread suffering.

Speaking of a statement from Peiping that 2,000,000 had died in Shensi province of famine, Andrews said the conditions were far worse in Kansu where "85 per cent of the province is afflicted with famine."

"Prospects for the coming year," Andrews asserted, "are that northwest China probably will experience a plague of disease and famine that will be the worst within human memory."

Reduced to the last extremity by starving, people in Kansu province said Andrews, are resorting to cannibalism. On many occasions he had witnessed flesh carved from bodies that lay in the roads and had seen it cooked and eaten by the desperately hungry.

The missionary told of authorities attempting at first to halt cannibalism and then abandoning efforts to stop it. One man, emaciated from hunger, said when brought before officials:

"Why should I be punished for eating only what dogs are eating?"

Continuing his recital, Andrews said that dogs and wolves were consuming unburied bodies.

Dynamite And Dope Found In Hangout Of Detroit Thieves

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP)—Detectives of the crime and bomb squad investigating an apartment at 241 Forest avenue today discovered an imposing cache of explosives, a quantity of narcotics and thousands of dollars worth of apparently stolen merchandise.

The officers said they believed the apartment was headquarters for a gang of store thieves or house robbers.

The explosives, sufficient to blow up several city blocks, were taken to headquarters. They consisted of 10 pounds of stick dynamite and 12 nitro-glycerine caps with fuse attached. The raiders found no one in the apartment.

Mortgage Foreclosure Hits Baptist Fundamentalist School

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 14 (AP)—Des Moines university, Baptist fundamentalist institution which closed last fall after a long series of events rocked its student body and administration today was ordered sold to satisfy a $225,000 mortgage held by the Boatsman National Bank of St. Louis.

The order was made by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey, who directed that the real estate, building and equipment be sold after the bank asked foreclosure and judgement of $207,670.

Claims of 29 intervenors will be satisfied out of property not covered by the mortgage, it was said. Certain endowment funds owned by the school were exempted from seizure but will be taken in charge by the receiver along with other unencumbered property and accounts.

"IT'S SNOW FUN!" CRY BRAVE CO-EDS

It's just an old Arctic custom, but when neighbors peered out the window and saw Helen Hobbs and Jean Handley, Drury College freshmen, cavorting about in the snow at Springfield, Mo., with only scanty bathing suits for protection from the zero weather, they decided they had their seasons mixed. "It's snow fun," cried Miss Handley, shown at the right, "but, just the same, we enjoy throwing snowballs, sledding and playing leap frog."

Hold Young Woman For Poisoning 18 On Summer Outing

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—A young woman was arrested tonight in a sorority dormitory of Columbia University as a fugitive from justice in Beegan county, N. J., where a grand jury indicted her last Tuesday on a charge of having administered poison to 18 children at a summer camp. None of the children died.

The woman under arrest, Mrs. Pearl Topper, 27, told police she was a teacher and denied the charge.

Mrs. Topper was employed as cook at a camp conducted at Montvale, N. J., by the Mary Hillard society for New York tenement children. Miss Ellen Simmons, manager of the camp said, and was discharged last August 19. Prosecutor A. C. Hart of Bergen county said Miss Simmons charged the young woman returned the next morning and poured large quantities of poison over the breakfast cereal.

Dr. Samuel Alexander ordered nine of the children who ate the cereal to New York hospitals and treated the other nine at the camp. He said the poison had no fatal effects because the unusually large doses acted as an antidote, while a smaller quantity probably would have proved fatal.

Mrs. Topper will be arraigned tomorrow in west side court.

Harvard Lockers Swept By Blaze: 3 Alarms Sound

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 15 (AP)—Fire of unknown origin early today swept through the Harvard locker building, housing all of the Harvard Athletic association's equipment. The building is within the stadium enclosure.

Three alarms were sounded because of the nearness of several low wooden structures housing a squad of regular army men attached to the Harvard University School of Military Science and the horses used by the military science students.

Barracks in Danger

The locker building is a two-story wooden structure. The Percy D. Haughton memorial stands at the entrance to a court yard, formed by the main structure and two wings of the locker building.

Hundreds of students, housed in the Harvard School of Business Administration dormitories, across the street from the stadium, rushed to the stadium enclosure. The fire could be seen for miles up and down the Charles river.

League Of Nations Adopts 3 Measures For Cause Of Peace

Geneva, Jan. 14 (AP)—The council of the League of Nations today adopted three measures designed to encourage the cause of world peace and international good will.

The first was authorization of a committee of eleven to draft amendments to the league covenant to bring it into harmony with the spirit and purpose of the Kellogg-Briand pact, which renounces aggression in war. This was a step toward executing a decision of the assembly which will receive the proposed changes when they are ready.

The second was a summons for an international diplomatic conference on February 17 to consider a customs truce as a move for eliminating barriers to trade.

The third was a decision to name a special commission to determine the rights of Jews and Arabs at the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem.

Governor Urges Back-to-Home As Furniture Motto

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP)—The furniture manufacturer has a big mission in encouraging the "back-to-the-home" trend, Gov. Fred W. Green said here today while visiting the annual Grand Rapids furniture market.

"It is the job of furniture manufacturers," he said, "to see that the average American is as proud of having a well furnished home as he is of owning the latest model car."

"Grand Rapids must take the lead in this movement," the governor continued. "People come here from all over the world to see the latest and best in furniture design and workmanship.

"Superficial changes and readjustments should not be cause for alarm. Grand Rapids' leadership is as strong as it ever was and is bound to increase if manufacturers and exhibitors continue alive to their responsibilities and march with the trend of the times."

ORIENT TRADER PHILOSOPHICAL

Chinese Mart Operators Takes Ups and Downs Stoically

BY W. A. WELLS.
(AP) Feature Service Writer)

San Francisco (AP) — Chinatown's first introduction of a full-fledged stock market crash has not shaken the Oriental's Stoicism.

Nor has it disturbed his confidence in his ability to play any gambling game which his white brother can think up.

Playing the market in the popular sense made its bow in Chinatown last July with the institution of the first branch brokerage office managed by Chinese.

Quotations were chalked on the usual black board in columns headed with both the English letter abbreviations and the Chinese phonetic equivalent for the name of the quoted stock.

To a few of the more knowing ones, stock trading was not new. Many of them knew and were known along Montgomery street, or played the big board direct through New York business connections.

To them, principally, stocks and bonds were regarded from the investment viewpoint and operations were preceded by careful study of intrinsic values, past, present and prospective earnings, commercial position and management.

The Oriental's ready acceptance of the theory that stocks can go down as well as up led to some of them being termed "natural born bears" and many of this group specialized on the short side.

The largest Chinese operator, perhaps the largest on the Pacific coast without regard to racial distinction, is reported to have made the rounds of the offices where he had accounts and to have collected checks totaling $250,000, closing out just 24 hours before the initial big break on October 24 last.

Many of his group are said to have ridden the fall for profits of thousands of dollars, and they were joined by other Chinese traders whose willingness to take a loss and switch to the other side of the market has been widely remarked.

Advent of trading on Sacramento street, however, presented a less professional aspect. There were some who made a serious study of security values, but to many it was just a new game which they could learn, like stud poker or dominoes.

Public participation of all ages and both sexes became general and when the series of big breaks came the majority were on the long side, but there were no suicides or loud lamentations.

"Too bad. Try again," was the typical expression heard.

The branch office established by a brokerage company has all the trimmings and appurtenances of the modern brokerage shop, but the proverbial chair warmers of the usual brokerage office are missing from the picture in Chinatown.

The Chinese trader drops in occasionally or calls by phone to get the latest quotation and then goes on about his business. Hundreds trade daily but there are seldom more than a few assembled in front of the board at one time.

Find Bodies Of 2 Men Lost Testing New Cabin Plane

Willimantic, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Ken Frazer, of the technical staff of the Aviation Corporation of New York, tonight positively identified the bodies of two flyers found beside their burned airplane near Lake Amston this morning as Daniel Marra and William A. Kirkpatrick.

He made the identification through watches, one bearing the name "D. Marra" and the other the initials "W. A. K."

Left Friday

Finding of the wrecked and burned plane and bodies today ended a search which has been conducted since last Friday when Marra and Kirkpatrick left Farmingdale, Long Island, in a Fairchild cabin plane on a flight to test its altitude performance.

Frazer, who came here from New York tonight, expressed the belief that the flyers had not been in the air much over an hour Friday morning before the crash occurred in the wild section bordering on Lake Amston. They took off, he said, about 9 a. m. and one of their watches was stopped at 10:10 and the other at 10:20.

He said he thought they ascended to a height of between 13,000 and 14,000 feet and lost their bearings when they glided back toward earth. There was a heavy fog at the time.

Marra was 28 years old and Kirkpatrick 26. Both were unmarried.

AMERICAN SLANG WINS IN ENGLAND

By NEA Service

London.—In a contest conducted by a Manchester paper, American slang expressions ran off with all prizes. Those most popular with English readers were:

A pain in the neck; to get away with it; to let in on the ground floor; to bump off; to spill the beans; bats in the belfry.

"It is clear," commented the awarding committee, "that American slang predominated and, incredible as it may seem, no one quoted any of the good old British slang phrases, perhaps because they are no longer known."

TREATS CANCER WITH DYESTUFF

German Scientist Reports Good Results With Isamin Blue

Berlin (AP)—Highly favorable results in the treatment of cancer with isamin blue, a dyestuff, were reported by Dr. H. Bernard at the recent meeting of the Berlin Medical Society.

Dr. Bernard told of satisfactory treatment of 200 cases, undertaken since 1926 at the clinic for internal medicine at Charite hospital.

Isamin blue was found especially efficacious in combination with irradiation treatment (Roentgen, radio or diathermic). The dyestuff materially enhanced the efficacy of the rays in the dual sense of impregnating the local cancer tissues and diminishing their powers of resistance on the one hand, and on the other, of increasing the body's resisting functions against the poisonous agents by virtue of the dyestuff's disinfecting qualities.

In the ensuing discussion in which Prof. Ferdinand Blumenthal, head of the institute for cancer research, joined, it was agreed that the injection of isamin blue into the blood circulation in conjunction with irradiation represented a marked progress in the treatment of cancer.

COUNTRY-WIDE SEARCH ENDED

Capture Trio Wanted for Murder of Highway Patrol

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 14 (AP)—Sheriff Charles W. Wright, of Maricopa county said tonight a woman captured with two men near Laveen earlier in the evening has admitted she is Mrs. Irene Schroeder of Benwood, W. Va., for whom a nation-wide search has been made in connection with the slaying of a Pennsylvania highway patrolman near New Castle, Pa., last December 27.

Mrs. Schroeder, and two men arrested with her, after an exchange of shots with a posse near Laveen, Ariz., tonight, were questioned by Sheriff Wright. The men tentatively were identified as T. R. Crawford and M. Glen Dague, wanted with Mrs. Schroeder for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul.

Wounded Deputies

The capture was the climax of a state wide hunt, started after a deputy sheriff had been kidnaped at Florence, Ariz., and later wounded by the trio, and another deputy had been shot and wounded at Chandler, Ariz., last night.

The men companions of Mrs. Schroeder gave their names as Clem Dague and Jim F. Wells. Wells said he was released from the Texas penitentiary on Christmas day. Mrs. Schroeder said Dague is her husband.

Farm Girl of 12 Illinois "Queen" In Corn Judging

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 14 (AP)—A 12 year old girl, Miss Mildred Riley, a farm girl from Faroa, is the "Corn Queen" of Illinois, as well as the "Corn Princess."

She won the titles today by virtue of her victories in both the general and junior competition in the tenth annual Utility Corn Show at the University of Illinois.

In winning she dethroned George Dyer of Atlanta, Illinois, who was king for a day. Through an error in compiling scores, judges in the show yesterday announced that Dyer's score of 88.5 per cent on his ten ears of yellow corn topped the 326 ten ear entries.

Today, however, the judges stated that Dyer's score was only 72.9 per cent and that the 82 per cent record of Miss Riley's entries was .2 per cent higher than that of H. C. Neiman of Philo, new winner in the ten ear class for adults.

Investigate Bout Which Took Life Of College Boxer

Olean, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Officials of the fight at St. Bonaventure college last night in which Evan Eugene Gustafson was killed by a blow on the jaw landed by his opponent, August Carlson of Jamestown will be called for examination before the district attorney next week, Sheriff Elmer Miller announced today.

The sheriff's announcement was made after the finding of Dr. William M. Smith, Cattaragus county coroner were made known. Dr. Smith found that the boxer died of a broken neck. The first vertebrae in Gustafson's neck was dislocated and the second fractured. He returned a verdict of "excusable homicide."

Jab To Jaw

The blow that killed Gustafson was delivered in the second round of a four round bout. It was a sharp right jab. Gustafson was caught in the arms of John C. Dempsey, chief of police of Olean, who was the referee.

Chief Dempsey said tonight that he asked Ray Graham, boxing instructor at the college, if he had a permit to conduct the fight and that Graham replied that he had the sanction of the A. A. U. and that everything was all right.

No Indictments In Black Duck Slaying

Providence, R. I., Jan. 14 (AP)—A special grand jury called to consider evidence in the slaying of three men aboard the rum runner Black Duck by coast guardsmen, reported in superior court here tonight that it had found no indictment.

Among the 22 witnesses heard were eight of the crew of the coast guard patrol boat 290, which fired on the Black Duck in lower Narragansett bay early the morning of December 29, fatally wounding Jake Weisman, of Providence, Dudley Brandt, of Boston, and John Goulart, of Fairhaven, Mass. Charles Travers, wounded survivor of the rum boat crew, likewise testified.

HOUSE PASSES WAR BUDGETS

Supply Bill Goes to Senate; Totals 457 Millions

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Increased to $457,043,386 by amendments, the annual war department supply bill for the fiscal year 1931 was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

The increases brought the total allotment for military purposes to $339,858,194, and the outlay for non-military activities to $117,185,192.

Aids Army Housing

The house restored the budget estimate for the army housing program of $16,062,882, from which the appropriations committee had slashed $2,000,000 in expectation of curtailment of expenditures as a result of the economic survey initiated by President Hoover. An amendment increasing the outlay for non-military activities by $12,000 to provide improvement at Chickamagua and Chattanooga National Parks in Tennessee and Georgia was approved.

The measure exceeds the appropriations for the current year by $2,454,024, exclusive of $800,000 for purchase of discharge funds. As finally approved it was only $313,507 less than the budget estimates.

For Flood Control

The measure carried with it, however, a provision which would prevent the use of any of the money appropriated for any other purpose in event that the chief executive's plans for reduction in military expenditures is carried out.

Although the outlay for non-military activities represented a decrease of $5,562,000, the sum of $55,000,000 was allotted for rivers and harbors work and $35,000,000 for Mississippi flood control work, increases in each instance of $5,000,000.

PLAN WELCOME FOR AMERICANS

Arrival Hour Is Too Early for Plymouth Arrangements

By FRANK HAVILAND KING
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—The first flurry in the final preparations for the five-power naval conference occurred today through Secretary of State Stimson's desire to reach London early Friday morning and put in a full day's work at the headquarters of the American delegation.

Mr. Stimson asked that the liner George Washington be speeded up so as to reach Plymouth harbor at midnight on Thursday, enabling the delegates to disembark and take a train due to reach London at eight a. m.

Fog Too Thick

But the secretary of state did not foresee the consternation he would create among Plymouth's own dignitaries, who have planned a ceremonial welcome for the American delegation in their historic harbor but consider that one a. m. is an unsuitable hour for it.

Moreover, the weather in London at eight a. m. in the winter is hardly proper for the warmth of the welcome that the capital expects to give Mr. Stimson. The sun does not pierce London's blanket of mist until later.

Creates Stir

Because of this situation the American embassy and the secretariat at the delegation's headquarters in the Ritz hotel were busy all day answering queries about the arrival of the Americans and their plans, while trying at the same time to placate the Plymouth officials.

Mr. Stimson has been informed of the confusion and his reply was awaited tonight. It is possible that the George Washington may arrive at Plymouth harbor at midnight and yet the delegates may not go ashore until 7:30 a. m.

The finishing touches to the commodious headquarters of the American delegation were made today under the direction of Lammot Belin, first-secretary of the embassy. Ambasador Hugh Gibson, arriving from Brussels tonight, will be the first of the chief delegates to occupy one of the numerous suites of offices, which take up almost three floors of one of London's finest hotels.

Two Full Embassies

The fourth, fifth and sixth floors of the Ritz are reserved for the Americans. The sixth floor is devoted to the secretariat, cable wires lead direct to the delegation headquarters. One room has been arranged as a mimeographing plant for publishing press statements and communications, and another large one reserved for American journalists.

The fifth floor is devoted to administrative offices, where each delegate will have a suite of work rooms.

Part of the fifth floor and most of the fourth provide living quarters for the chief delegates.

London can boast of housing two American embassies during the conference, one in Grosvenor Gardens and the other in the Ritz. Each is an independent organization communicating direct with Washington. Ambassador Dawes will act as liaison officer between them.

The ambassador has a suite of offices at the Ritz as well as his embassy office, where Ray Atherton, counselor of embassy, will be in charge during the conference.

State Can't Get Firearm Fine If Violator Balks

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP)—Violators of the state law regarding careless use of firearms who are unable to pay the $50 fine provided in the statute will find themselves liable to no alternative penalty, Recorder's Judge Christopher E. Stein said today.

Moreover, the state will be forced to bring civil suit against them to collect the fine if they do not make payment, the judge said.

These opinions were expressed as Alex Charzokowski, convicted of violating the act, walked out of the courtroom after expressing himself as unable to pay the fine of $50. A baliff tried to stop him, but Judge Stein intervened.

A similar situation was created yesterday when Patrolman Floyd Warwick was fined $50 for careless use of firearms and said he was unable to pay his fine.

West Point Drops 64 Cadets; Failed In Mid-Term Quiz

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Alonzo Parham, negro, of Chicago, was among the 64 cadets honorably discharged today from the United States military academy for failure to pass their mid-term academic examinations.

Parham was deficient in only one subject, mathematics, and he is eligible to take reexamination in March, which if successfully passed, will entitle him to reenter the academy.

Forty-eight of the cadets dismissed were plebes, or freshmen, and the others were sophomores. The examination was taken by 137 cadets, 73 of whom passed. Forty-six, all third and fourth classmen, were deficient in only one subject and they have the privilege of reexamination in March.

Major General William B. Smith, superintendent of the academy, said that the plebe class grades this year showed an improvement over last year when 15.7 per cent of the class was discharged.

The cadets dismissed today had failed to pass the written general review held early in December and also failed to meet the requirements in a special second examination.

Each individual case was reviewed by various boards of instructions at the academy and then referred to the war department for final action.

More and More COLDS treated externally

A GENERATION ago when Vicks VapoRub was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, more and more colds are treated this modern way, and the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting delicate little stomachs. Of course it is equally good for adults. Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

To keep pace with the ever-increasing demand for this better method of treating colds, the famous Vick slogan has again been changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

SNOW REMOVAL.

PROBABLY no state service inaugurated in the past decade has produced such a tremendous volume of direct benefits to the people of Michigan, as the state highway department's annual snow removal program. Through its operation for the past three years—at the outset in the face of predictions by scoffers that it could not be accomplished, Michigan's snow removal program has proven the marvel and the shining example of the nation.

No state in the union has perfected a more effective system for keeping its main arteries of travel open during the winter months than our own state of Michigan and the people of the state, as well as officials of the highway department, can well draw a wide measure of satisfaction from the accomplishment.

Speaking before the Escanaba Kiwanis club on Monday, H. I. Davies, district engineer, stressed the importance of state control of highway maintenance and that system of centralized maintenance, worked out in this state, is the real hub of Michigan's success. If he had wished to do so, Mr. Davies could have pointed to the sorry examples of the lack of state control of winter maintenance, offered in our sister states of Wisconsin and Minnesota. In both of those states, each county works out its own snow removal program and Michigan residents who travel into either of those states during the winter months, can testify as to the ineffectiveness of the county system.

The day of the "laid up" automobile, during the winter months in Michigan, is definitely in the past. By the operation of the state's snow removal system, the city is as close to the country dweller in the winter as it is in the summer. And the people of Michigan are mighty proud of this accomplishment.

PROTECT ST. IGNACE.

RESIDENTS of St. Ignace and Mackinac county were unable to present a united front of opposition to the state's plans for changing the site of the state ferry dock at the upper peninsula end of the ferry system, at the hearing held in Lansing on Monday. This lack of unity is likely to prove fatal to the cause of those seeking honestly and determinedly to prove the impracticability of the state's plan, for, according to newspaper accounts sent out from Lansing, there were delegations present both opposing and favoring the dock site change.

While the people of the upper peninsula, in general, may not exhibit an over-whelming interest in this matter, it must be recognized as a truth, that no loyal citizen of the peninsula will view with equanimity any action by the state that will seriously injure the city of St. Ignace. Residents of that city occupy, probably, the most unusual position of any city in the state. It can be said that St. Ignace depends more largely than any other regularly established city in Michigan, upon tourist traffic for its prosperity. Founded first as a trading post St. Ignace, has been able to justify its existence and permanence by serving as hosts to the thousands of tourists who annually flock to the peninsula at that principal gateway into this section. The people of St. Ignace have proven their faith in their town by the building of substantial business places and comfortable, attractive homes, until today a more attractive small city cannot be found in all of Hiawathaland.

The people of the upper peninsula, interested in the development of every section of this territory, will not view with complacency any action that will injure materially, a point so rich in historical lore and one which so completely depends upon its annual tourist trade for its existence, as this same handsome little city of St. Ignace.

A TEAR STEALS DOWN OUR CHEEK.

THAT BELL you hear tolling is probably recording the funeral of the Boston Watch & Ward Society. Resignations of some of its leading officials during the last few weeks have left the Boston censorship comedians in an unusual predicament. The legislature is threatening to enact a law forcing any person who is set up as a censor of books, plays or motion pictures in Massachusetts to pass successfully a general knowledge test proving them to have the mentality of at least an 18-year-old child. That means the end of a censorship. No person who could pass such a test would accept a job as a censor.

They might feel very strongly on some points at issue but they would be decently minded enough to uphold the constitution. Other laws provide severe penalties for the sale of indecent literature the production of indecent plays and movies, and especially the use of the mails and interstate shipment of any of them.

The constitution very emphatically guarantees the right of trial by jury for alleged criminal offenses and the due process of law for taking his property away from him. The legal way is the American way.

Take that radio announcer—that man Henderson—down in Louisiana, for instances. We have scant sympathy with the things he is trying to do nor the manner in which he is trying to do them. We have no patience with the things he is saying. But we'd fight for his right to say them. When free speech dies in America, America too will be dead.

COOLIDGE AND SMITH.

THE recent announcement of the manner in which the $6,000,000 estate of the late Conrad Hubert is to be divided among various charitable organizations brings to a close an episode that has made extremely pleasant reading.

Former President Calvin Coolidge and former Governor Alfred E. Smith were two of the committee of three named to settle on the method of dividing the estate. For a number of months they worked together; and there was something very refreshing about the manner in which these two distinguished men—utterly unlike one another in birth, breeding and outlook—pitched in together to perform a public service.

Calvin Coolidge and Al Smith—a strange pair to work in harness together, surely! It was pleasant to read about their joint activities, pleasant to speculate on the contrast which their presence on the same committee kept emphasizing. We are sorry that their work has been brought to a close.

SHEARER MUST STAY AWAY.

DISPATCHES from Washington indicate that William B. Shearer will be barred from Great Britain if he attempts to horn his way into the forthcoming naval disarmament conference at London.

This is very good news. There seems to be a good deal of haziness about the exact nature of Shearer's activities at the last conference, but there is little reason to doubt that he was sent there to toss a monkey wrench into the proceedings if he could, and he did his blatant best to fulfill his mission.

How much influence the man may have had is another question. However, there is no use in taking any chances. His sole role at such an affair seems to be that of troublemaker. Both the United States and Great Britain will be much better off if Shearer is kept at least 2000 miles away from London while the conference is in session.

DRINKING THE EVIDENCE.

THE South Carolina supreme court has ruled that a jury in a prohibition law trial may drink the evidence in order to satisfy itself whether it is intoxicating.

This sounds like common sense. Yet it seems to us that it might, just conceivably, open the way for queer doings.

The supreme court made its ruling in denying the appeal of an Aiken county bootlegger, who wanted his conviction thrown out because the jury that convicted him drank 49 bottles of seized beer during its deliberations.

Offhand, one would think that the man had grounds for complaint. It would hardly seem that a jury would need to drink four dozen bottles of beer in order to learn whether the stuff had an illegal kick. Still, the jurors may have figured that it's best to be thorough.

CHAPTER IX

Sunday on shipboard was a gray day, stormy and menacing. It reminded Judith Knight that not only New York but December lay ahead. Bermuda had been like May. Now they were coming to December. May and December. Oh, why should that hateful, hack-neyed phrase come to mind?

She was shaken and pale—doubtless a reaction from her tempestuous outburst the night before.

Judith tried to conquer the mood. She put on her brightest frock, a green velvet with skirt and bolero of solid color and a plaid blouse combining crimson, yellow and black. Her hair looked a mass of silken high lights and she used carmine to accentuate her vivid lips. Then, summoning reassurance, she set out jauntily to find Arthur.

It was late morning. She found her husband, as she had expected, in the purser's office. They strolled toward the library.

"Arthur," said Judith with forced cheerfulness, "do you know what's almost here?"

"Certainly. New York harbor. Only you've got it wrong, dear. It isn't almost here—we're almost there."

Laughing, she shook her head.

"You've forgotten. I knew you had!" she accused. "Arthur, it's nearly Christmas."

"Christmas? Good Lord, that's what the semi-tropics will do for a person. Make you forget everything in the world that's seasonable. Christmas—Judith, what day it is?"

"Sunday," she told him promptly. "Sunday, the 17th of December. Only eight days more, Mr. Knight, to do your Christmas shopping early!"

Arthur assumed an expression of mock terror.

"Don't make it sound worse than it is," he said. "Anyhow, I never have any Christmas shopping to do. Miss Tupper attends to all that."

Judith's arch enemy of office days! Hearing Miss Tupper's name was like a sudden dash of ice water. It brought to mind an instant vision of the woman's face. Judith could hear the private secretary saying again in her cold, clipped tones: "I cannot with a clear conscience give you a recommendation—"

The girl fought down impulse. What a bundle of nerves she was becoming lately! She wouldn't—no she WOULDN'T surrender!

"Of course," Arthur was adding hastily, "I don't quite mean that. Miss Tupper doesn't do all my shopping for me. Just the worst part, the cards and duty offerings, and gifts for the employes. There are presents," he interrupted himself to chuckle, "that it's really a pleasure to buy. Don't you just wish you knew what I'm thinking of? Don't you?"

Judith rallied.

"No," she said. "I'm busy thinking about certain Christmas packages myself."

"Oh, we'll have a great Christmas—a wonderful Christmas," Knight continued as though the subject, launched so hurriedly, was beginning to suggest great possibilities. "Just think, Tony'll be home. I'm going to insist she shall stay home at least that long this time! And Junior's school will be closing in a day or two. We'll have a big tree in the living room and you and I'll find socks for 'the Hoodlums.' And we'll have—oh, just wait till you see what I'm thinking of! You see, I have to make up to you in some way for bringing you back home so soon."

Tony would be there—and Junior, too. Just in a few days now.

Knight was so delighted with his own speculations he failed to see the clouded expression cross his wife's face.

"Arthur," she said, turning to him earnestly, "oh, I DO hope they'll like me! I'm—sort of worried—"

He laughed down at her, patting her arm and told her that of course the children would be fond of her. She must put such nonesense out of her head.

"I'll try," Judith promised, but the smile with which she said it was a rueful smile.

The rest of that day she kept her worries to herself. When Arthur talked she was gay, apparently in the best of spirits. But if conversation languished the hunted look came back into the girl's eyes. For long intervals she sat silent.

Two fears were battling in Judith Knight's mind. The one fear was tangible—and she felt she might conquer it. The other fear was intangible and therefore immeasurably the more dangerous. Judith Knight was no coward. She knew she was facing her ordeal.

By the end of that evening even Arthur knew that something had gone wrong, but when he made inquiries and tried to be helpful, she scarcely listened. Nothing was the matter, Judith assured him. Nothing at all.

The situation brought about the first rift in confidence and mutual understanding between them since their marriage.

Later that night when she repented and wept with her head pillowed on Arthur's shoulder he assured himself that the attack of nerves was only a minor malady, soon to be forgotten.

Sure enough, Judith seemed her usual, sweet-tempered self next morning. By 7:30 her husband was out on the deck. He hurried in to report that the harbor was glorious in the early morning mist. Soon they would stop at Quarantine. He urged Judith to dress quickly and come for a stroll on deck.

She sent him off alone again, promising to be ready in half an hour. Feverishly she continued her painstaking toilet. She was to make her initial appearance this morning as the mistress of the Knight home. Servants would eye her calculatingly, the girl was aware. They would be critical. For Arthur's sake and her own she felt she must look her best.

The frock she chose was a beige crepe. It was becoming and perfect taste for morning. Over this she wore the coat of broadtail—dressy but permissible, she thought, for a bride. The black hat was her favorite and so she wore that.

At breakfast Arthur was ravenous. He ordered fruit, cereal, then broiled ham and eggs, brought on a steaming platter. Judith broke a muffin open, buttered it and tried to sip her coffee. The coffee was strong and good. She enjoyed it.

"Judith," her husband said, glancing across the table with his most appealing smile, "we're going—home! Are you glad, dear?"

"Yes, Arthur," she told him, "—glad."

They had been late to reach the dining room. Now the place was almost deserted. Waiters stood about, eyeing the last diners nervously, eager to finish their duties before reaching port. Judith and Arthur arose at last and made their way to the deck.

There was the city!

It was nearly nine o'clock. The metropolis was aroused but still sluggish. Everywhere in the North river there was activity. Tugs and ferry boats moved about them, chirping and moaning. The breeze was cold and smarted against Judith's cheeks, but the day was clear.

"Arthur," the words came impulsively, "oh, I AM glad to be back!"

The city had proved kind once. Why not again? Judith Knight felt herself swept by the contagious good cheer of a return to port. The voyage was ended, a task successfully completed.

She heard the national anthem ring out on the morning air. Over the spires of skyline and through gray clouds a flood of bright sunlight came pouring.

They moved up into the Hudson, past piers of a dozen steamship companies. At last the liner made a half turn. Tugboats propelled it to the dock. Down went the gangplank.

Her husband knew exactly how to minimize delay with officials and resurrect familiar baggage from the endless stream borne off the ship. He managed it all very quickly. They passed beyond the customs gates and there Arthur paused.

"Ought to be around here somewhere," he mused. "Do you see him any place?"

"Who?"

"Bert—with the car. If I could only get where I could see something—" There he is—over there—see? Here," he added, turning toward the porter, "bring those bags after us."

They reached the maroon-colored limousine, which still was a sight to fill Judith's heart with awe. Bert, beaming and apparently delighted to see them, stored away the bags, took his post at the wheel, then turned for instructions.

The two in the tonneau rode silently through streets crowded with morning traffic. Judith slipped her hand into Arthur's and left it there. They rode across town, then over the sweeping Queensboro bridge to Long Island.

Soon, Judith told herself, she was to see her new home. It was to be a new home and a new life. She turned toward Arthur and found reassurance in his smile.

"Fifteen minutes more," he said, "and we'll be there. Anxious to see the place?"

Judith nodded.

"Think you'll like it better out here than in the city?"

"Oh, yes, I'm sure of that!"

Bert was a good chauffeur. He avoided traffic tie-ups, turned down little used streets. It was really less than 15 minutes before he drew up in front of a large colonial brick house and turned into the driveway.

"Here we are Judith."

Arthur was helping her out of the car. She stood on the walk an instant, looking up at the big house. There was a yard, trees and clumps of shrubbery. The structure back of the these was of dark brick. There was a white doorway with pillars on each side. Judith saw shuttered windows and someone in the doorway waiting to welcome them. She saw these, a dozen other details, and then the whole scene became a swimming, hazy vision. Very, very hazy—

Arthur Knight's right arm shot forward. He was just in time to save her.

HEALTH

One of the most serious things that can happen to a human being is to get an embolus in his blood stream.

An embolus is some foreign material, usually solid, that gets loose in the circulation and travels around until it comes to a place where the blood vessel is so narrow that it can travel no further. Then the embolus stops and the blood is unable to get beyond it to feed the tissues which are ordinarily supplied with blood by the blood vessel concerned.

When the tissue fails to receive blood it dies or becomes so weakened that secondary infection sets in promptly. The result is gangrene or abscess, in many instances sufficiently severe to cause death.

Some of the parts of the body are fortunately supplied with blood not only by one blood vessel but by several. In such cases the stopping of one blood vessel may cause a temporary disturbance until the other blood vessels can take up its functions. In other parts of the body only a single blood vessel is able to circulate blood to the part and when such blood vessels are stopped the result is usually an extremely serious condition, not infrequently leading to death.

For instance, stopping of some of the blood vessels which reach the kidneys, the lungs, the heart and portions of the brain may be followed promptly by the most serious type of symptoms.

The things which act as emboli are usually blood clots. When a leg is fractured, fat may get into a blood vessel or into the bone and be absorbed into the blood. The fat particle travels about as an embolus.

Even an air bubble may on occasion circulate through the blood and if sufficiently strong may block a blood vessel.

When this situation occurs, it is usually promptly realized by the family that the condition is serious and a physician is called. In many instances there is little that can be done besides giving the human body every possible opportunity to overcome the serious situation by putting the patient at complete rest and aiding his weakened tissues. In some instances, a surgical operation is necessary for the removal of the portion that has become gangrenous.

The explanation of the nature of an embolus will help the uninformed to understand why physicians find it so necessary after extensive surgical operations to keep the patient completely at rest until the blood clots have been absorbed.

THE PATROLMAN.

There is no office that is small.
The lone patrolman on his beat
Holds in his hands the good of all
Within his kingdom of one street.
His not the duty just to guard
Men's property, enforce the law;
Some boy shall be long afterward
The man that here he heard and saw.

His is a place of leadership,
And he must lead us right, who can.
He surely must be clean of lip,
A Christian, and a gentleman.
He must be brave, in all the ways
That men are brave who truly are,
The law the one thing he obeys,
His proudest treasure his bright star.

He fears no foes, and serves no friends,
All men are equal in his sight,
He knows no grudge, no private ends,
No privilege, no special right.
For better lose this coat of blue
Than stain it with disloyalty,
Do less than what he swore to do,
Be less than what he swore to be.

SNOW HINDERS AUTO TRAFFIC

Trunk Lines in Upper Peninsula All Open This Morning

From eight to nine inches of snowfall—the greatest amount thus far this winter—yesterday impeded vehicular traffic on upper peninsula highways, but scarcely affected train schedules.

The snowstorm was most severe in the eastern part of the peninsula, from where reports were received that automobiles were having a hard time to get through. The situation was expected to be relieved this morning, however. Highways M-69 and M-35 were reported as heavy going.

Plows of the Delta county road commission went out on the highways early yesterday morning and battled with snow flurries all day and last night. The blizzard let up about 7 o'clock. Although the main trunk lines were kept open, some of the isolated country roads are choked up, but will be cleared by noon today.

City plows were busy all day yesterday, and snow loading operations on Ludington street will be under way today. Motorists are urged not to park their automobiles in the path of the snow loader as this slows up the snow removal work considerably.

Although the snowfall was heavy, the highways were not in such bad shape as at times when less snowfall has been recorded. This was due to the fact that the snow was damp and heavy, with the result there was not much drifting.

Chicago & North Western railway trains operated close to schedule yesterday. Train No. 217 from Chicago was only 15 minutes late upon arrival here.

The temperature will drop today, going down to about zero tonight and Thursday morning. The mean temperature yesterday was about 27 degrees.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

Ziegfeld's "Glorifying the American Girl" opened at the Delft Theatre yesterday in all the gorgeous splendor that one would expect from any production, stage or screen, bearing the magic name of Florenz Ziegfeld.

With many of its spectacle scenes reproduced in full colors by the improved Technicolor Process, with scores of stunningly beautiful girls in the singing and dancing ensembles, with lavish setttings, with comedy, drama and a heart-gripping story this moving panorama of womanly pulchritude moves across the all-talk'ng silverscreen in a continual parade of highly absorbing amusement.

Mary Eaton, dancing star of Ziegfeld shows on Broadway, and lately the leading woman in "The Cocoanuts" with the Four Marx Brothers on the talking screen, is the ambitious young dancer who finally makes good and becomes a glorified beauty with Ziegfeld following a series of glamorous experiences. She is adequately supported by Dan Healy, Edward Crandall, Olive Shea, Kaye Renard and Sarah Edwards—all of them well-known Broadway performers.

AT THE STRAND.

Now and then a film comes along of which insistent advance information has been that it is out of the ordinary in its treatment. Such a photoplay is "Loves of Casanova," a Cineroman production, made abroad, which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will present at the Strand Theatre today and tomorrow.

One of the outstanding features of this picture, which deals with the romantic adventures of one of the most absorbing adventures of history, Giacomo Casanova, who preferred to call himself The Chevalier de Seingalt, is that it has color sequences achieved by the stencil process and hand-tinted by thousands of women and children in France.

Green Bay Waters Ass'n Meeting At Green Bay Today

Harold P. Lindsay will attend a meeting of the Green Bay Waters association at Green Bay today to discuss plans for the activities of the organization next summer.

The association, composed of Green Bay, Oconto, Marinette, Menominee, Escanaba and other port towns on Green bay, held a series of six water carnivals last summer.

Plans to advertise the round-the-lake tours on U. S. Highway 41 will also be discussed.

C&NW Roundhouse At Green Bay Is Damaged By Blaze

Fire at the Chicago & North Western railway roundhouse at Green Bay caused $3,000 damage to the roundhouse and equipment and put seven locomotives temporarily out of commission Sunday morning. Four of the engines were expected to be back in service yesterday and the others some time the latter part of the week.

The fire is believed to have originated in the cab of engine No. 318 when the canvas cab curtains became ignited from a workman's torch. The crew had "knocked off" for lunch at 1 a. m. and by the time the flames were discovered at 1:15 they had secured a good start. The cab roof of No. 318 was burned through and the cabs of the next two locomotives were so badly burned that they will have to be rebuilt. The next four engines suffered less but will need repairs to the roofs. The three most seriously damaged had their cab and signal lights wiring destroyed and pipings were warped and ruined by the heat. Several boiler jackets will have to be repainted.

Damage to the building was principally confined to the window frames of a sort of clerestory which runs along above the cabs, and which was nearest to the flames. The clerestory wall of frame construction was burned through for several yards and the under side of the roof was badly charred.

The estimated loss of $3,000 is about equally divided between damage to the building and the locomotives.

After trying to put out the flames with fire equipment on the grounds which proved inadequate, a call was sent to the city fire department. Three lines of hose were turned on the building.

SMOKING DUCK NOW WIDGEON

Game Waterfowl Had Queer Monickers 50 Years Ago

"Probably few Michigan waterfowl hunters ever heard of the smoking duck. Yet that is the name by which the widgeon was frequently known 50 years ago, for the reason that its call was thought to resemble the sound of a smoker puffing his pipe," says the Flint Journal.

"For that mater, it is to be doubted if the modern wildfowl gunner would decognize many of his targets by their names of a half century ago.

"Many of these title were bestowed on the ducks by the market hunters and have passed into oblivion along with the clan from whose language they came.

Three Varieties

"For instance, eastern marketmen claimed to furnish their patrons with three varieties of mallards in the late 70's and 80's.

"These were the greenhead, the gray mallard and the black mallard. The gray mallard was the female greenhead, commonly believed at that time to be a separate species. The name black mallard has lived and the black duck today is known by that title more frequently than by its rightful name.

"To the oldtime gunners, the greenwing teal was known as the winter teal, the blue wing as the summer teal. The wood duck boasted the names of tree duck and acorn duck and was rated as one of the finest wildfowl for table use.

"From this habit of rafting in huge flocks, the bluebill was called the flock duck, raft duck and troop fowl. The merganser was known as the shelldrake even in the early days. Sometimes, however, he was called the sparling fowl, sparling being the ancient English name for smelt on which the merganser fed in that country.

It is 'Some' Ducker

"From the agility at diving at the flash of a gun the golden-eyed won the title of spirit duck. It was known too as the whistler, a name that has lasted, and as the jingler and among the eldest of the gunners as the merry wing.

"The coot was hunted under a host of names in that day as now. It was called the mud hen, marsh hen, pond hen, water hen, sea crow and crow duck. Desnite its unflattering names, however, it was held in high esteem for the excellence of its flesh, especially when fattened in the rice fields.

"The king rail and gallinule were commonly known as marsh hens.

"The Canadian goose was known among gunners as the gray goose, the bay goose and the reef goose. The smaller Hutchins goose was called the mud goose, the winter, barnacle and Eskimo goose. By some hunters this wild fowl was believed to spring from the shell of a small barnacle.

"The brant won its name from its dark color, being first called the brant goose, meaning branded or burned goose. It ranked high on the tables and was especially fine when killed in late spring so the term May brant held much significance for ejicures."

TWO RECEIVE PRISON TERMS

Schoolcraft County Circuit Court Closes Term Tuesday

With the meting out of sentences, granting of continuances in several cases and the disposal of a number of law and chancery cases, the January term of circuit court in Schoolcraft county came to a close here late yesterday afternoon.

Three violators of the prohibition law received the only sentences imposed by Judge H. W. Runnels, at this term.

Sherman Richards received the heaviest penalty, being sentenced to Jackson prison for a period of from one to four years, with a recommendation of one year. He pleaded guilty to sale and possession and was meted out punishment under the Cuthbertson act, under which the minimum penalty for sale is one year.

Woman Sentenced

Marie Derkos, who pleaded guilty to possession and manufacture was sentenced to four months in the Detroit House of Correction.

Per Olaf Gisberg, who had entered a plea of guilty on a liquor law charge, was sentenced to pay a fine of $150 and $70 costs, or an alternative of six months in Jackson. He paid the fine.

The case of George W. Gray, Jr., Charles Coon and George F. Gray, charged with owning, equipping and operating an automobile with a device for throwing a smoke screen, was continued for further investigation and sentenced at the next term of court.

The cases of Patrick Foley and Mark Roman, guilty of larceny and William Keelean, who pleaded guilty to desertion, were continued for sentence.

Dismiss Finance Suit

The suit of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation against the Lundstrom Garage company was dismissed. The suit was for balance due on an auto through the local agency and financed by the acceptance corporation. Testimony brought out by defense attorney, J. J. Herbert, showed that the carrying charges made by the company were to include a number of insurance policies including collision. Following an accident in which the car was wrecked, it developed that the finance company had not covered the car with collision insurance and the owner refused to pay the balance. This right was upheld by the court. Att'y. G. S. Johnson represented the Industrial Acceptance corporation.

Has Letter Written by Roman Governor Who Saw the Christ

Among the many historical relics treasured by John I. Bellaire, Manistique merchant, is a fac-simille of a letter written by a Roman who saw the Christ, and describing the appearance of Jesus at that time. The letter and Mr. Bellaire's explanation of it's origin follow:

"The following epistle was taken by Napoleon from the public records at Rome, when he deprived that city of so many valuable manuscripts. It was written at the time and on the spot where Jesus Christ commenced his ministry, by Publius Lentullus, the Governor of Judea, to the Senate of Rome, Ceasar, Emperor.

"It was the custome in those days for the Governor to write home any event of importance which transpired while he held office.

" 'Conscript Father:

" 'There appear in these days, a man named Jesus Christ, who is yet living among us, and of the Gentiles is accepted as a prophet; but his own disciples call him the Son of God. He hath raised the dead, cured all manner of disease. He is a man of stature somewhat tall and comely, with a very rudy countenance, such as the beholders may both love and fear. His hair is of the color of the filbert when fully ripe, plain to his ears, whence downward, it is more orient of color, curling and waving about his shoulders; in the middle of his head is a seam or partition of long hair, after the manner of the Nazarites His forehead is plain and delicate; his face without spot or wrinkle, beautiful with a comely red; his nose and mouth are exactly formed, his beard is of the color of his hair, and thick, not of any great height, but forked.

" 'In reproving his is terrible; in admonishing, courteous in speaking, very modest and wise. In proportion of body, well shaped, none have seen him laugh, but many have seen him weep. A man, for his surpassing beauty excelling the children of men.'

" 'Publious Lentullus.' "

FOUGHT FIRES FOR 29 YEARS

Sanford Stone Honored by Fellow-Workers at Party

Twenty-nine years a member of the Manistique fire department is the record of Sanford Stone, 620 Park avenue, and the completion of his twenty-ninth year was celebrated at a party last night in the firemen's meeting hall at which Mr. Stone was the guest of honor. Mr. Stone is also the oldest active member in continuous service in the department.

Mr. Stone joined the force in 1901, when most of the fire fighting in the community was done by the volunteer method. John Loose was chief at the time and there were only a few paid men. The equipment consisted of a hook and ladder wagon, a fire engine, two teams and a two-wheeled hose cart which was usually pulled by the first drayman to pass after the alarm bell sounded.

He has followed closely and aided in the development of the department until today, with 3 motorized units, two pumper and chemical units and a hook and ladder truck, manned by three full time men and a well drilled corps of call men, it stands as one of the most efficient forces, for a city of this size, in the peninsula.

Among the big blazes which Mr. Stone fought during his long service were: the C. L. boarding house, Dr. Nelson's home at the foot of Range, the disastrous Chicago Lumber company mill fire which cost the life of Henry Hamill, the Brown mill, the Berry chemical still house, and several at the chemical works.

Of the force with which he started, Mr. Stone is the only man who is still in service. Among the members of that early group were Ray Stone, Alex Richards, John Derro, W. H. McMulkin, Harold McMulkin and the late Dan Scott, John Hamill, Edward Robare and Middie Robare.

Mr. Stone is chairman of the call men, which office he has held from the start, with the exception of one year.

SIX VICTORIES IN FIRST HALF

Cagers Have Unblemished Record; Bergman High Point Man

With their victory over the Matherites of Munising, the Manistique high school basketeers completed the first half of the 1929-30 season with six straight wins and no defeats.

Whether they will be able to continue the pace with Bartman out remains to be seen. Friday's return game with Newberry, there will show just how much, if any, the squad has been weakened by the loss of the star guard.

Bergman, scrappy center, took the lead as high point man, in the Munising game, his 13 points giving him a total score of 58. Carlson, who formerly sat on the top of the ladder, is on the second rung, with a total of 57. Buttars is third with 29 and Bartman and Ekdahl are tied at 15, each. Other scoring follows: W. Orr, 5; Jones 4; Graphos 2; Morrison 2; and E. Orr 2.

In the six encounters, Manistique has scored a total of 189 points to their opponents 107. This scoring has been accounted for in the following manner: field goals, Manistique, 80, opponents, 37; free throws, Manistique 29, opponents 33.

Would Legislate Solid Car Tires Off The Highway

Atlantic City, Jan. 13 (AP)—The recommendation that solid automobile tires should be legislated off the highways was made today in the report of O. S. Hess, of Grand Rapids, Mich., to the American Roadbuilders convention here. He is chairman of the association's committee on legislation, finance and administration, county highways officials division.

The report urges that every county of every state appoint a non-partisan board of three road commissioners with exclusive power to determine the annual budget for highway construction.

The employment of a competent county highway engineer should be directory, if not mandatory, was another recommendation. The report also urged that county road commissioners should be given the authority to enforce load restriction laws, upon failure of other office to do so. It was stated that officials responsible for the design and construction of roads should be empowered to protect the investment from destruction by illegal traffic.

Systematic and constant attention to roads embraced in the county system and carefully, simple methods of accounting also are recommended.

Seek League Heln For Arab and Jew Wailing Wall Scrap

Geneva, Jan. 13 (AP)—Palestine and Irak furnished the first flurry tonight in the deliberations of the fifty-eighth session of the council of the League of Nations which began this morning.

A proposal by Great Britain, the mandate power, to seek solution of the Wailing Wall controversy between the Arabs and Jews through research by a special commission received a check when the permanent mandates commission reported unfavorably. The council decided to postpone debate on the subject to a sitting later this week.

The question of entry by Irak into the league, as advocated by Great Britain which is also mandatory power for that ancient Biblical land, grew to importance when it was seen that it involved the new problem of how to get rid of a mandate.

APPLIANCE CHECK URGED

Cooperation in Elimination of Radio Disturbance Asked

An appeal to every Gladstone resident who uses electrical appliances of any kind, to check them over with a view to locating radio disturbance was issued Tuesday by Alfred F. Raddant, who is heading the campaign in progress to locate and eliminate radio disturbance.

Efforts in this direction have been redoubled following the considerable amount of interference experienced during the past month.

It is certain that much of Gladstone's radio distrubance is caused by electrical appliances, Mr. Raddant said yesterday, and equally certain that in the majority of cases, those using the appliances are unaware that they themselves cause disturbance.

"For this reason," he continued, "we are asking the cooperation of everyone in trying out all electrical appliances in their homes, with their own radio, or with their neighbors."

Investigation has shown that a violet ray machine or an electric diathermy is capable of creating interference covering an area of several miles, Mr. Raddant pointed out, in that it follows secondary electrical lines, and even at times affects telephone wires.

In view of this and of the great amount of disturbance an immediate check-up is urged, and in addition to this, all those using electrical appliances are asked, if possible to refrain from their use between 6 p. m. and 1 a. m.

If this cooperation is given by everyone and it is believed that it will be, and the distortion in reception caused by improper operating of a set by using too much power, is done away with, there is every possibility of eliminating a good share of Gladstone's radio disturbance.

League Cabinet Meets Tonight

THEATRES

RIALTO.

Now Alice White has become the "Sheba" girl of the screen. No less an authority than Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl," "Kept" and "Sheba," has conferred that title upon her.

The First National picture, "Playing Around", which is to head the bill at the Rialto Theatre now showing all talking drama, is a spicy and dramatic, tuneful and high-kicking version of Miss Delmar's story "Sheba." And the director of the picture, Mervyn LeRoy, joins with the famed writer in thinking that Alice is the ideal "Sheba," not only of this story but of her type in life.

"The 'Sheba' girl says 'Give me liberty or I'll take it!'—and she usually has to take it," LeRoy observes. "She cares nothing for the conventions of her sex, for she is to the old code of morals what the futurist is to the old schools of painting.

"I think that the term 'Sheba' will take on a new meaning in popular slang when Miss White's picture plays the theatres of the country," he added. "Alice and Miss Delmar together will make it stand for something definite as regards girls, sex-conventions and morals, as Clara Bow and Elinor Glyn made 'It' stand for something general. Alice is the 'Sheba' of our dreams!"

MAKING PLANS FOR BOYS MEET

Delegates From Escanaba Enrolled With Prin. Lemmer

Organizations of this city, who plan to send delegates to the Older Boys Conference to be held in Ironwood on Feb. 14 to 16, are advised to communicate with John A. Lemmer, principal of the Escanaba high school. Mr. Lemmer will have charge of the delegation going to the meet, and is supervising the local arrangements for the event.

The conference at Ironwood promises to be one of the most successful in history. A list of able speakers of national reputation have been obtained to address the boys.

Coach James Phelan of Purdue university, who has been in the limelight in recent years because of the strong football elevens he has produced, will be one of the principal speakers. Others are: W. G. Spencer of Hillsdale college; Ray Johns, Detroit, former upper peninsula Hi-Y secretary; Mr. Byrum, Detroit, state field worker for the Y. M. C. A., and C. M. Drury, Marquette, upper peninsula Hi-Y secretary.

George Campbell of St. Louis will again lead the assembly singing, and Si Oliver, the Eskimo pianist, will be the accompanist.

General arrangements for the conference are being made by Mr. Drury.

Purloined Polly A "Fever" Suspect; Owner Gets Lockup

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Police Judge John P. McMahon today heard how Miss Ethel Nelson's pet parrot was stolen, and how Miss Nelson having read about "parrot fever," decided the birl could stay stolen.

Evidently the bird's kidnaper also heard of the malady, for when Miss Nelson returned home the other day she chilled to hear polly's "Hello, Ethel, how's a girl?"

All during the bird's absence, Miss Nelson said, she had a pretty good idea as to who had purloined Polly. Ginegrly holding the cage, she hastily made her way to the home of the suspected person. The entire story of what happened at that point was blurred in the court's records, but when the police reserves arrived the air was full of parrot feathers, accusations and recriminations.

Judge McMahon told Miss Nelson she had been disorderly, and delivered a sentence of "twenty-five day or $25." She chose the jail.

Ice Harvesting Commenced Here

The S. M. Johnson Ice company started the harvesting of ice on Bay de Noc on Monday. About twenty-five men are employed.

The ice concern will supply the Chicago & North Western railway first, and then will haul to its storage sheds for the local trade.

The ice in the bay averages about 14 inches in thickness.

ESCANABA TRIO TAKE DECISION

Affirmative Debaters at Iron Mountain Win Arguing Test

The Escanaba high school affirmative debate team defeated the Iron Mountain negative trio at the Iron Mountain auditorium last evening. The victory keeps the Escanabans in the running as contenders for the state debate title under the system adopted by the Michigan State Interscholastic Debate League.

The affirmative team from Escanaba which was awarded the decision was composed of Elizabeth Taylor, Robert Oshins and Wheaton Strom. The Iron Mountain negative team consisted of Vernon Johnson, Robert Brauns and Carl Nelson. The judge was Professor Crowe of Lawrence College. The Escanaba team was accompanied to Iron Mountain by their coach, Joseph Shipman.

Two Out of Three

The victory was the second in three debates chalked up by the Escanaba debaters. The negative team won from the Soo in the first contest of the season and the affirmative trio was defeated by Manistique negative later. The victory is the first for the local affirmative team.

The last scheduled debate for the Escanaba team will be the negative speakers opposing Menominee affirmative at the Escanaba high school gymnasium, January 24. If the locals are victorious, they will be assured one of the 64 places which entitles them to compete in the state elimination series with lower peninsula teams. If they are defeated, it is improbable that they will be able to continue in their quest of the state title.

Escanaba Men To Appear In Court At Soo This Week

Proprietors of seven Escanaba drink shops are scheduled to appear in federal court this week to show cause why their places shall not be padlocked. The men, John Sharkey, Dan Dwyer, Pat McNellis, Fred Morton, William Rawley, John Brown and Miro Skradski have all been convicted on liquor charges following a raid conducted by federal officers last June.

About 50 cases, the majority of them for violations of the liquor law, will face Judge Fred Raymond of Grand Rapids at the term which opened in the Soo Tuesday.

The following persons are expected to face the grand jury during the term of court:

Joseph Corey, John Sesson, and Harry Lane of Blind River, Ontario, John Kellsner, Detroit, and A. Blum and Louis Epstein of Chicago, Illinois.

The five men are charged with conspiracy to smuggle 70 cases of liquor into the United States.

Alfred Benninghaus of Sault, Ontario, and Samuel Sanford of St. Thomas, Ontario, and Samuel Barker of Chicago, are charged with attempting to smuggle 20 cases of champagne into the country. They were arrested December 13, 1929, when Benninghaus and Sanford tried to land whisky on the shore near the Union Carbide plant at the Sault.

Elmer Sawyers, Soo, is charged with a violation of the prohibition act.

Eugene Williams, Joseph Bell and George Miller of Milwaukee will face a charge of possession of liquor. They were arrested by patrol officers with 320 quarts of liquor in their possession.

Carl Lindburg, Sugar Island farmer, is charged with smuggling liquor into the U. S. A. He is believed to be implicated with the three Milwaukee men.

John Johnson, of Bessemer, the sheriff of Gogebic county, will appear charged with the manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor. Some of the liquor and beer seized at his bottling works in Bessemer is being brought here for evidence. Johnson was arrested following an investigation by Ray Harring, federal enforcement chief in the upper peninsula.

Russell J. Fowler of Owosso, Michigan, Warren J. Cooley, of Brant, Michigan, and Vernon Johns of the Sault will be charged with the manufacturing and possession of counterfeit money. They were arrested November 20, 1929.

Edward Bowman, United States district attorney, and his assistant, John Jones, will prosecute the cases for the government.

Eugene Mayville of Garden Nabbed For Illegal Possession

Eugene Mayville of Garden was arraigned before Justice of the Peace H. E. Ranguette yesterday on a charge of illegal possession of whisky, and upon waiving examination was bound over to circuit court. He furnished bonds of $500 for his release.

Mayville was arrested by the sheriff's department.

PEARL DETECTOR SUCCESS

Tests of a new invention to detect Japanese cultivated pearls from the natural ones are said to indicate that it is infallible. The device, perfected in Europe, is operated by electricity. The pearl is suspended on a silk thread in a glass tube fixed over an electric magnet and exactly between the two magnetic poles. When an electric current is passed through the magnet it causes the cultivated pearl to revolve, but the natural pearl remains stable.

TEA TRADE IN CHINA SUFFERS

Sino-Soviet Break Is Disastrous To Merchants

Shanghai (AP)—China's tea trade is in a serious state of depression as a result of the rupture of Sino-Soviet relations. In Russia, Cathay lost her biggest tea customer, the backbone of her trade in that commodity for half a decade.

Fifteen years ago when China's foreign tea trade reached its peak, $40,000,000 worth of the leaves were exported annually. The total value of the 1928 exports was less than $15,000,000, and with Soviet Russia lost as a market the 1929 figures will be much lower.

There are other causes for this sharp drop besides the break with Russia. The keen competition in recent years of foreign teas, such as the Japanese, the Ceylon and the Dutch, is probably the most important reason.

Conservatism on the part of China's merchants and planters is another. The fact that the government has been unable to give the tea merchants much support is still another.

Chinese tea merchants have petitioned the Nationalist government for aid.

"With Russia lost the last hope for the recovery of our tea trade is gone," the petition states. "British merchants know that we cannot ship directly to Europe and America. They refuse to offer more than $12 per picul for tea which costs us $30. As a result the death sentence has been passed on Chinese tea and countless merchants have lost heavily financially while many have committed suicide."

SOLVED AT LAST

Geneva, Ill.—Why a man sings in the bathroom while taking his morning ablutions has finally been solved by the Newcombe-Hawley laboratory of the United Reproducers corporation here. The narrowness of the bathroom sets up waves which make the feeble tones of weak singers sound majestic and more sonorous. The proud male finds here the only place where his singing really suits himself, so he cuts loose with his vocal renditions.

JUST A JOY RIDE

New York—Geraldine Bessi, Gloria Bacarel, Dorothy Egbert, Julia Pturcurll, and Harry Engelhausen, all under 11, took a joy ride on a raft. It started out famously until the raft blew about half a mile out into the Atlantic. Harry started swimming ashore for help but before he arrived aid reached them. The raft had blown out into the ocean three miles by the time they were rescued.

HAVE YOU SEEN THESE TWO GREAT NEW CARS?

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS
THE NEW OAKLAND 8

GENERAL MOTORS' Lowest-priced Eight—
$1045 AND UP

Three years of actual designing and testing preceded the announcement of the New Oakland Eight. In addition it incorporates General Motors' sixteen years' experience in building fine eight-cylinder automobiles. This mature background accounts for its sound basic design.

Superior Performance

The New Oakland has an 85-horsepower engine. This is the highest power ever employed in a car of Oakland's size and weight, racing cars excepted. Oakland develops one horsepower to 37 pounds of car weight. That's why few cars are as fast. That's why few, if any, can pass it on the hills. That's why it accelerates so rapidly. In fact, that is the reason for its superior performance.

Eight-Cylinder Performance

With its high speed and fast acceleration, the new Oakland combines the smoothness resulting from the overlapping power impulses inherent in eight-cylinder design. This smoothness is intensified by such features as its complete down-draft fuel distribution, its patented laminated spring and rubber engine mountings and a new type of cylinder head which assures uniform combustion.

Only a close inspection and a demonstration will enable you to understand fully the many advantages provided by the New Oakland Eight.

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

New Beauty, Smoothness, Safety

Smart new bodies by Fisher make the New Series Big Six a more beautiful Pontiac. Pontiac's smoothness is increased by a new type of rubber supports for its 60-horsepower engine. Improved non-squeak four-wheel brakes and a new sloping non-glare windshield add to the car's safety.

Time-Tried Performance

When these and other improvements were being made, all of Pontiac's basic big car excellence was retained.

Come in. Let us show you the many advantages of this finer car with a famous name—the New Series Pontiac Big Six.

Total sales 1,883,440 shares.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Bullish forces continued in control of the price movement in today's stock market but again lacked sufficient punch to lift the market out of the narrow trading area within which it has been floundering since the turn of the year. Prices of scores of issues were marked up 2 to 6 points in the early trading but a renewal of short selling and profit taking cut down the gains at the close.

Trading showed a tendency to increase on the rallies and turn dull on the declines, which was widely accepted as evidence of a strong technical condition. The day's sales of 1,883,440 shares were nearly 450,000 shares above those of yesterday.

Watch Germany

Business and financial news continued mixed in character, but favorable developments appear to be increasing. Germany's acceptance of the Young plan was hailed as one of the day's most constructive achievements although its immediate market effect was negligible. A further increase was noted in steel mill operations, plants of the United States Steel corporation being reported at 67 per cent of capacity and those of the independents at 64 per cent, as against 61 per cent and 58 per cent, respectively, a week ago.

The railroad shares failed to follow through on the rally which started yseterday, although moderate gains were recorded by Delaware & Hudson, Nickel Plate, Great Northern Preferred, Atchison and a sprinkling of other issues.

Public utilities, which have attracted increased buying support since the recent supreme court decision defining "a fair return" on property investment, moved irregularly higher.

Oils Drifting

Motor shares continued rather sluggish, although the declines in the leaders were held to fractions. Oils also failed to make much headway. Merchandising shares, some of which are reported to harbor a large short interest, were mixed. Active coppers showed only narrow fractional changes.

There was only a moderate demand for call money, which held steady at 4½ per cent all day. Other monetary rates were unchanged.

A further easing in Sterling cables to $4.86⅝ and renewed heaviness of Spanish pesetas, which dropped 16 points on profit takings, featured the mixed foreign exchange market.

Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat advanced fractionally on reports that the farm board was buying the commodity, and corn lost ground. Cotton declined 60 cents to $1.25 a bale in sympathy with an earlier decline in foreign markets.

EARNINGS

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The net earnings of the Western Union Telegraph company for 1929 amounted to $15,490,573, equal to about $15.23 a share on the capital stock. These earnings compare with $15,467,659, in 1928, or $15.11 a share. The 1929 earnings were the largest since 1919, with the exception of 1925, when they totaled $16,186,259.

The Bankers' Securities Corp. which conducts a varied banking and investment service, reported earnings of $2,084,741 for 1929, or more than $900,000 in excess of dividend, regular and extra, on both classes of stock paid during the year. The balance sheet on December 31, showed total assets of $30,397,222.

The annual report of the National Biscuit Co. for the year ending December 31, showed net income of $21,423,571, equal to $8.21 a share on 2,398,469 shares of common stock. This compares with $17,883,365, or $7.31 a share on 2,209,520 shares in 1928.

The Reynolds Tobacco company reports net earnings for 1929, after all charges, of $32,210,521, or $3.22 a share, as contrasted with $30,172,563, or $3.01 a sare in the previous year. The balance sheet disclosed undivided profits of $51,579,859, the balance of earnings, after dividends, during the past year having been ...6,710,521. Quick assets were $120,532,496, including $18,139,801 in cash, and current liabilities were $9,776,970. Brands, trade marks and good will are carried at $1.

Neet, Inc., reports net profit of $268,653 for 1929, after all expenses and taxes, as against $174,698 for 1928. The year's earnings were equivalent to $6.14 on the cumulative convertible class A stock and $3.02 on the class B stock, after the payments of class A dividends.

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Bonds moved narrowly higher today, reflecting an improved investment demand for listed securities which have been meeting successfully the increased competition from new offerings. Inquiry was along rather conservative lines, as it has been since the demoralization of security markets late last year, and the trend in investment tastes, already well demonstrated by the ready absorption of recent floatations, was toward the best rated obligations.

Prices were irregular during the forenoon and only a few bonds showed a disposition to move. Late in the session, however, a distinctly better inquiry appeared, especially for the rails, with the result that the averages for all groups rose. Only a comparatively small number of issues traded in more than average volume.

Rails Pushed Up

A handful of the high priced rails pushed beyond their 1929 highs on active accumulation. Union Pacific Refunding 5s rose 1½ to 110, Rock Island Refunding 4s advanced ¼ to 96, and Southern Railway Consolidated 5s gained 2 points to 110½, all new peaks for the past year.

Convertibles were again colorless. Among the United States governments only the Fourth Liberties got much attention and that loan lost 5-32. Changes in the group were mostly on the down side.

Announcement of another large bond floatation which has been pending for some time was made tonight. It is the $35,088,000 Chesapeake & Ohio Railway 65-year 4½ per cent refunding and improvement mortgage issue approved about a fortnight ago by the interstate commerce commission. The bonds are to be offered tomorrow at 94 ,to yield 4.80 per cent to maturity.

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Production of steel ingots continues to increase, Dow, Jones & Co. reported today, adding that this trend was contrary to the situation a year ago when operations declined after the spurt following Christmas and New Year holiday curtailment. The industry is now averaging between 65½ and 66 per cent of rated capacity, as against 59 to 60 per cent a week ago, and 38 to 39 per cent during the holiday shut-down.

The Guaranty Trust Co. has received a shipment of $146,400 in gold coin from Buenos Aires.

Gross sales of all refined products of the Standard Oil Co. of Kansas in 1929 were the largest in the company's history, exceeding 1928 by approximately 22½ per cent, according to A. S. Hopkins, president. The company's 1930 business, he said, would surpass last year's.

A new issue of $30,000,000 Associated Gas & Electric Co. convertible 5 per cent ,gold debentures, due in 1950, will be offered tomorrow for public subscription. The bonds will be offered at 90 and interest, yielding 5.85 per cent, and will be convertible between March 15, 1931, and March 15, 1933, into class "A" stock at the rate of 18 shares for each $1,000 debenture.

Consolidated net income of the Auburn Automobile Co. for the year ending November 30, 1929, approximated $3,500,000, equal to about $21 a share on 169,686 shares, compared with $1,425,233, or $8.40 a share on the same amount of stock on November 30, 1928.

Hale Holden, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific company, has been elected a director of the Western Electric Co.

Consolidation of all water service subsidiaries in California of the American States Public Service Co., recently approved by the California railroad commission, has been effected and the merged subsidiaries are now known as the American States Water Service Co. of California.

The American Telephone & Telegraph company revealed today that the number of small shareholders had increased between the October and January dividend dates, covering the period of the stock market break. Holders of five shares or less gained more than 6 per cent, while the number of persons owning from six to ten shares rose almost 6 per cent. The increase for the quarter was 14,000 stockholders, bringing the total to 269,000, the largest of any corporation in the world. Shares in brokers' hands declined more than 15 per cent in the quarter and the average number held by the stockholders declined from 29 shares to 28.2.

PUBLIC UTILITY PUSH ON CURB

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL,
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Revival of bullish operations in a few public utility stocks featured an otherwise dull and colorless Curb market today. The day's sales ran over 700,000 shares with four power and light stocks supplying about one-fourth of the day's entire volume of business. While late profit taking checked the early advance, final quotations again disclosed a preponderance of net gains.

United Light & Power A, responding to reports of a sharp increase in earnings, was the leader of the public utility group, closing with a gain of more than 3 points. American Superpower, Cities Service and Electric Bond & Share, the three next most active issues, improved fractionally.

New Gas Wells

United Gas, which recently reported a sharp increase in production as a result of the discovery of new wells in the Refugio field, climbed more than 4 points and closed near the top.

Application for a receivership for Kolster Radio was held responsible for the renewed weakness of De Forest and Dubilier.

Columbia Pictures and General Theatre Equipment showed moderate gains but a renewal of selling pressure against Fox Theatres carried that issue close to the year's low level of $5 a share. Investment trust and trading corporation shares displayed a firm undertone, Fourth National Investors, Insull Utilities Investors and Third National Investors gaining a point or two.

Great Lakes Dredge and Dock and Murphy Co. broke sharply to record low levels on a few transactions.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Jan. 14—Federal farm board moves to bring about curtailment of wheat acreage in domestic spring crop territory did a good deal to lift wheat values today. In this connection, statements today from Alexander Legge, president of the farm board, indicating that the board is doing everything in its power to remove danger of overplanting served to stimulate buying based on announcement that seaboard clearances of wheat and flour were larger, 758,000.

Wheat closed firm, ½ to 7-8c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 3-4c off, oats a shade to ⅛ at 3-8c up, and provisions showing 20 to 37c gain.

Increased rural offerings of corn to arrive here led to late downturns in corn values. Oats averaged higher, sympathising with wheat strength.

Provisions were firmer, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

CRUDE OIL

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 36,950 barrels for the week ended January 11, totaling 2,689,250 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. Mid-Winter Frolic to Be Held Here Feb. 15-16

MAKING PLANS FOR BIG EVENT

Skating, Hockey and Dog Racing to Feature Program

The second annual Mid-Winter Frolic will be held in Escanaba on Saturday and Sunday, February 15 and 16, it was announced yesterday by H. P. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Plans are now being made with the intentions of having this winter's carnival outshadow by far the stupendous event of last year.

About three thousand persons witnessed the program at the municipal rink on each of the two days last winter, and it is expected that the attendance will be doubled, if not trebled, this year.

Press Skating Derby

The first day will be given over to the fifth annual Press Skating Derby, an affair which is eagerly awaited by the youthful skaters of the city and outlying communities. It is planned to have the Society of Forty and Eight put on the dog races again late in the afternoon, and a hockey contest at St. Patrick's rink in the evening with two amateur teams of this city as the contestants.

Arrangements are being made to make Sunday's program a gala event. There will be senior skating races and contests at the large municipal rink at Eighth avenue and South Fifteenth street. It is also planned to have fancy skating by professional exhibitionists. An attempt will also be made to have two college or semi-professional hockey teams come here for an exhibition game.

Program Details Later

Details of the two-day winter carnival program and the names of the various committees, which will have charge, will be announced by Secretary Lindsay in the near future.

The growth of winter sports in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin during the last five years has been rapid. For years, ski tournaments have been held at Ishpeming, and in recent years the program has been broadened to include other outdoor winter sport activities. Wausau, Wis., has gained widespread publicity through the holding of elaborate carnivals, which have attracted visitors from all parts of the middlewest.

Indications are that if the program is continued, Hiawathaland will become one of the foremost winter playgrounds in the country, taking a place alongside of Lake Placid and other winter resorts in the east.

SHUTE CLAIMS BIG GOLF COIN

Ohio Newcomer Comes Through; Detroiter In Fifth

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Riviera Country Club, Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (AP)—Over the same flooded fairways and rain-soaked greens that proved a golfers' graveyard for America's greatest, there tramped today a little-known disciple of the royal and ancient game to win the championship of the $10,000 Los Angeles 72-hole open.

Young Denny Shute, from Columbus, Ohio, whose brief two-year career as a professional hardly rated him the honor of a gallery, hunched his shoulders into the wind and braved the torrential rains to post the respectable and winning score of 296. It bested by four strokes the efforts of such notables as Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., star, and Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, winner of the Los Angeles open in 1927. They tied for second place with 300.

Smith and Cruickshank started today's first round three strokes behind Shute but failed to make up the lead. Cruickshank saw his hopes shattered on the morning nine; Smith's chances faded away on the incoming stretch when on three holes he went over par figures.

Not brilliant golf but rather a steady game that clung close to Riviera's par 71 figures brought Shute laurels in the fifth open championship here, one of the biggest money events of the winter season.

For four rounds the mid-westerner posted scores of 73, 74, 75 and 74. And for his efforts, Shute pocketed tonight $3,500, the winner's share.

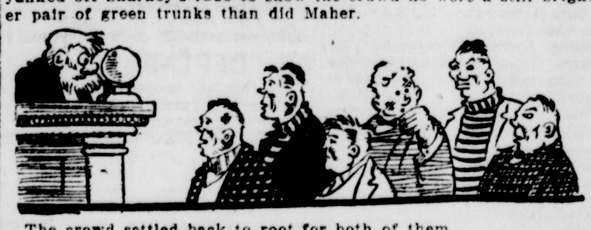
Tim Recalls Irish Championship Battle Between Maher and Tom Sharkey

NEVER will I forget the "Irish championship" battle, between two Irish fighters with two Irish handlers, before an Irish crowd, and which wound up in arrest by Irish police and appearance before an Irish magistrate.

That was Tom Sharkey's fight with Peter Maher in New York in 1897. As I thought the fight important, I hired Joe Choynski and Bob Armstrong, the negro champ at that time, as sparring partners. The sailorman was in the peak of condition when we went to the old Lenox Club for that fight.

It looked to me as though every Irishman in New York was there that night. And they installed Maher as a 3 to 1 favorite.

Maher was called to the center of the ring, and as he threw off his bathrobe, displaying bright green trunks, the crowd cheered. I yanked off Sharkey's robe to show the crowd he wore a still brighter pair of green trunks than did Maher.



The crowd settled back to root for both of them.

With the championship of Ireland at stake, Maher and Sharkey flew at each other. The fighting was terrific.

Just before the end of the first round, Maher managed to floor Sharkey with a terrific right to the jaw. In the fifth, Sharkey flattened Maher, and the tide of battle turned. And Tom began forging ahead.

IN the seventh round the "ace boys," who had put up the long odds, jumped into the ring, claiming Sharkey had hit Peter after the gong sounded. Jimmy Caldwell, the referee, refused to allow the claim of foul.

There was a general mixup. We climbed into the ring from Sharkey's corner. Maher's seconds and towel swingers climbed in, and soon we were a moiling pile in the ring, pulling at each other, while the crowd was in an uproar.

When Referee Caldwell could make himself heard, he threw up both arms and called the fight a draw. This, if anything, made matters worse. Police Inspector McLaughlin and his riot squad appeared, and everybody in the ring wound up in the old Harlem police station. Big Tim Sullivan heard of it, and bailed everybody out.

WE appeared before an Irish police judge the next day. I wish I could recall his name.

The first man he called was Peter Maher. He asked Pete where he was born. "Ireland, your honor; county Galway," Pete replied.

"And you, Buck Cornelius?" to one of Pete's handlers.

"Ireland, county Kerry."

"John Quinn?"

"Ireland"—a Kerryman, too.

"Peter Burns?"

"County Wicklow, Ireland."

"And you, Tom Sharkey?"

"Ireland."

"And you, Tim McGrath?"

"County Limerick, Ireland."

"That's enough," said the judge. "I can't see any case here. You are all dismissed."

Fighting In Game, Penalty $50 Each

Montreal, Jan. 14 (AP)—Fines of fifty dollars apiece in addition to match penalties were handed out today by President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League to Bill Cook, New York Rangers, and Art Somers, Chicago Black Hawks, for fighting in a game Sunday night at Chicago.

Somer and Cook, opposing wingman, clashed during the second period and battled for some two minutes before they could be separated.

The fines were inflicted today on the arrival of Harry Batstone, referee of the game, who presented his report to President Calder. Both players were barred from playing in tonight's games as a result of their fracas.

VULCAN NEXT PAROCHIAL FOE

Brunelle Stresses Individual Defense; Eskymos Away

St. Joseph high school basketball team which opened its 1930 campaign with a victory over Rapid River last Friday will play host to the Vulcan team at the Escanaba high school gymnasium this week.

Coach Brunelle announced yesterday that his entire lineup is in tip top shape for the first time this season and that every player has a feeling of confidence that was lacking in their play before the Christmas holidays.

Individual defensive work has been stressed this week in preparation for the Vulcan game. A decided improvement was noted in the Parochial play at Rapid River but the St. Joe mentor indicated that he is not entirely satisfied yet.

Little is known here in regards to the strength of the Vulcan quintet but they hold one victory over the Parochials, a 19 to 9 win in the last game played between the schools.

The Eskymos will journey to Negaunee this week.

Madison Square Garden Chief Is Wined And Dined

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, was dined and toasted tonight at a huge testimonial banquet by the "600 Millionaires Club," famous organization of wealthy business men organized by the late Tex Rickard.

Despite the absence of two other guests of honor, Bobby Jones and Gene Tunney, all the wit and wisdom of the various sporting units was loosed upon the gathering in short speeches. Mayor James Walker acted as toastmaster.

"Big Bill," who succeeded Rickard as the head of the Garden activities, was presented with a large plaque by the "Millionaires" club in appreciation for his labor in promoting the heavyweight match last February in Miami Beach, Fla., between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling. Carey expects to head south again shortly to aid in the promotion of the second battle of the palms, Jack Sharkey's encounter with Phil Scott, Feb. 27 at Miami.

WHAT'S A LITTLE THING LIKE SLEEP?

London (NEA) — At 51, when most men crave and need lots of sleep, B. Camplin-Smith, theatrical agent, works 21 hours a day and sleeps three.

He never feels tired, and any hour from 3 a. m. to 12 midnight might find this machine man working at his desk or engrossed in a novel. It is said that he has gone 60 and 72 hours without sleep.

"Most people sleep too much," he says. "The only time I had eight hours' sleep I felt ill for days. The great thing is the quality of the sleep rather than the quantity. In the few hours I sleep, every bone, muscle and nerve is at rest, and the three hours of this is far more beneficial than eight or nine of so-called sleep. Few people have learned the art of real sleep."

GROVE SHADED BY J. ZACHARY

Tops Averages in League, 12 Games Without Defeat

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP)—While Robert Mose Grove, angular pitching ace of the champion Philadelphia Athletics, was generally conceded to be the class of American League moundsmen in 1929, Jonathan Thompson Zachary, veteran Yankee southpaw, dished up just enough of his effective side arm slants to win the mathematical championship.

Final, official averages tonight revealed that Zachary, who in his even decade of service in the American League has been with Washington, St. Louis and New York, not only won 12 games without a defeat but topped all pitchers in the circuit with a low earned run average of 2.47 for each nine inning game.

Grove Strikeout King

However, he toiled but 120 innings whereas Grove pitched 275 innings, distributed over 42 games, winning 20 and losing six and compiling an earned run average of 2.82. The Philadelphia slab star was strikeout king of the circuit too, for the second successive year, whiffing 170 batsmen. In 1928 he struck out 183 batters and was second only to Herb Pennock of the Yankees with 24 victories and eight defeats.

Edwin Rommell, a teammate of Grove's who was employed mostly as a relief man, was the only other pitcher in the league to hold his opponents to less than three earned runs a game. He worked in 32 games, pitched 114 innings and won 12 while losing two.

Other leaders and their records for 1929:

Fred Marberry, Washington, 19 won, 12 lost, earned run average 3.06; Alphonse Thomas, Chicago, 14 won, 18 lost, earned run average 3.19; George Earnshaw, Philadelphia, 24 won, 8 lost, earned run avenage 3.28; Willis Hudlin, Cleveland, 17 won, 15 lost, earned run average 3.34; J. Walter Miller, Cleveland, 14 won, 12 lost, earned run average 3.58; George Walberg, Philadelphia, 18 won, 11 lost, earned run average 3.59; Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland, 21 won, 10 lost, earned run average 3.59.

Earnshaw was second in strikeouts with 149 and gave the most bases on balls, 125 in 255 innings. Sam Gray of St. Louis worked the largest number of innings, 305, and 23 of his 43 games were complete. Thomas of the White Sox pitched 24 complete games out of 36.

No No-Hit Tilts

Not a single no-hit game was pitched in the American League during 1929, but Urban Faber of Chicago, Walberg of the Atheltics, Wells and Pipgras of the Yankees came close with one-hit performances. Howard Ehmke, one of the Athletic's big heroes in the 1929 world series, pitched but 55 innings and but two complete games all season.

Zachary and Charlie Ruffing of the Boston Rex Sox had the Alpha and Omego of pitching streaks. Zachary winning 12 straight and Ruffing losing 12 straight.

Swats and Swiftness Main Assets For Detroit; Need Pitchers, Short

(This is another of a series of stories on 1930 prospects of major league baseball clubs.)

BY MERLE OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP)—Speed and hitting power will be the chief assets of the Detroit Tigers in the 1930 American League baseball campaign. If their pitching is improved and the hole at shortstop is plugged they may finish in the first division. Changes have been made since September to improve the club's morale.

Four Vets

George Uhle, Vic Sorrell, Owen Carroll and Earl Whitehill are the veteran pitchers on whom Manager Stanley Harris will depend to do a large share of the mound work. Elon (Chief) Hogsett, Art Herring, Whitlow Wyatt, Charles Sullivan, Phil Page, Kyle Graham and Joe Samuels are included in the list of recruit pitchers.

Hogsett, a lefthander with an underhand delivery, was purchased from Montreal last September. He won 20 games and lost 13 for Montreal in 1929 and showed to good advantage in the few games he pitched for Detroit last September. He is a Cherokee Indian.

Hayworth Receiver

Herring also was purchased late in the summer after winning 19 and losing 13 for Oklahoma City Western League club. He throws righthanded. Wyatt, who won 22 games and lost only six for Evansville club of the Three-I League last year, is a product of semi-pro baseball in the south.

Raymond Hayworth, recalled from the Toledo American Association club last August, is expected to develop as the regular catcher. Mervyn Shea, who was ill most of last season, Pinkey Hargrave, a good hitter, Bill Steinke, recruit from Seattle, and George Rensa, obtained from Toronto this winter, will be available.

Dale Alexander will play first again. Alexander batted .343 in 1929, his first season with the Tigers, to lead American League rookies, and collected 25 home runs. His fielding was not so impressive.

Shines at Second

Charlie Gehringer, who led or tied for first place in the league last season in games played, stolen bases, runs scored, three base hits, doubles and total hits, led all second basemen in fielding, and batted .339, is expected to have another great year at second. The veteran Marty McManus will play third and can fill in at first base should anything happen to Big Alex.

The shortstop problem is believed solved with the acquisition of Bill Rogell, purchased from St. Paul. Rogell formerly was utility infielder for the Red Sox. Bill Akers who was purchased last summer from Beaumont club of the Texas League and played a good brand of ball for the Tigers late in the season will contest with Rogell for the regular job, as will George Westling, another rookie last year.

Go to It, Buck!

Roy Johnson, Jonathan Stone and Elias Calvin Funk seemed slated for the outfield positions. Johnson came from San Francisco last spring and became a regular. Stone was recalled from Toronto late in the season. Funk batted .85 for Hollywood last summer and comes highly recommended. Harry Rice still is with the club although efforts have been made to trade him. Anthony Spencer Harris, outfielder drafted from Minneapolis, hit .340 for the Association club last season. Robert (Rhino) Fothergill, league leading pinch batsman, will be there to swing a wicked stick and fill in at any outfield position when needed.

Manager Harris has before him the task of developing this group, largely youngsters, into a baseball team. Bucky will get a big hand if the Tigers finish anywhere near the top.

Gene Tunney O. K., Word At Hospital

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, was showing rapid improvement tonight following a kidney operation performed here on Monday.

At the Presbyterian hospital where Tunney is convalescing, it was said tonight that the former champion's condition was satisfactory.

Lieb, Rockne Aide, May Coach Polies

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP)—Tom Lieb, who as assistant Notre Dame football coach led the Ramblers through an undefeated season last fall after Knute Rockne was taken ill, may coach Alabama Poly, Auburn, Ala., next season.

Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama institution, has conferred with Lieb but today said nothing definite has been decided.

RACE JULY 14 AT KALAMAZOO

Grand Circuit Dates Set; Officers Are Elected

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP)—Racing dates for the 1930 season in eight cities of the grand circuit were set today by grand circuit stewards in a meeting here.

The dates allotted were reported satisfactory to all cities but Cleveland. A minority report seeking to give Cleveland two weeks from June 30 to July 12 was defeated and the city was instead allotted the week of June 30 to 6 and a second week in August.

Extend Invitation

As a result of the decision the city may be forced to hold a week of independent racing in order to make the metings come in sequence, according to A. C. Pennock, representing the Cleveland association.

Invitations from Grand Rapids, Cleveland and Indianapolis for the 1931 meeting of the stewards were referred to the president with power to act.

The dates allotted were:

Toledo, June 21 to June 28; Cleveland, June 30 to July 6; and August 4 to 9; Kalamazoo July 14 to 19; Toledo July 21 to 26 and July 28 to August 2; Aurora, Ill., Aug. 11 to 16 Hartford, Conn., Aug. 18 to 23 Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 25 to 30; Indianapolis and Syracuse with concurrent meetings Sept. 1 to 6, and Lexington, Ky., the two open weeks at the end of the season.

Open for Milwaukee

E. Roland Harriman, New York was reelected president of the grand circuit. Other officers were William P. Engelman, Kalamazoo firse vice-president; L. B. Sheppard, Hanover, Penn., second vice president; and William Gahagen, Goshen, N. Y., secretary-treasurer.

No date was assigned to Milwaukee, which was not represented when the committee in charge of assignments was in session Mr. Engelman said tonight that if the Wisconsin city later wants a date, it probably can get one as several are open.

PROHIBITION FIGHT LOOMS

Financing Enforcement Is Bigger Issue Than Tariff

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington (AP)—On its tenth anniversary, national prohibition again is before congress in the most demanding manner since the eighteenth amendment was voted.

The amount of funds to be provided for prohibition enforcement is the immediate problem. Some of the drys are demanding more than the regular $15,000,000 annual allotment.

The prospective report of President Hoover's law enforcement commission and the pending congressional inquiry into means of reorganizing the enforcement service are in the congressional mind also.

First attention to the controversial prohibition problem will be given by the house, which soon will have before it the treasury department appropriation measure carrying funds for enforcement.

Almost at the same time there will come before the house the senate resolution carrying out the recommendation of President Hoover for the appointment of a joint congressional committee to study methods of reorganization.

It is conceded that the overwhelming administration and dry majorities will put through both without much disorder, but the wets are looking for some test votes.

In the senate the fireworks are in prospect. There, the Democratic drys are going to insist upon a greater appropriation. Senator Harris, Democrat of Georgia, will wage this contest.

But a real struggle is in prospect in the attempt of both wets and drys in the senate to force the law enforcement commission to submit an early report of its six months of investigation. How far this movement will get depends on the attitude of the Republican drys.

Already some of the Republican prohibition leaders are on the firing line. Senator Borah of Idaho, who played an important role in Hoover's campaign, is calling for a cleanup of the enforcement service "from top to bottom."

Senator Norris of Nebraska, another Republican dry, has directed his fire at Andrew Mellon, who, as secretary of the treasury, is the chief enforcement officer. He says that is the place to start a cleanup.

But the senate drys are not united. Senator Sheppard of Texas, the "father of the eighteenth amendment," says President Hoover is making a real attempt at enforcement and he is willing to give the new administration an opportunity to show its hand.

All in all, it looks as if the days of pre-prohibition oratory are going to be revived for a time this session—and President Hoover is going to have something besides the vexing tariff legislative controversy to concern his plans up at the capitol.

Parrot Fever List Mounting; 50 Sick

counted among the reported victime of the fever, is under observation and treatment for it. Dr. Daniel S. Hatfield of Baltimore, said today that four members of an Aberdeen, Maryland, family were ill with what probably was parrot's fever, while a four-year-old girl had recovered and her two brothers and her mother were progressing.

Mrs. S. S. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kalmey, of Annapolis, first to come to the attention of medical authorities as victims of the malady, are expected to recover.

Surgeon General Cumming of the public health service said tonight he did not view the situation with alarm for the general public, but that officials were concentrating on an effort to prevent further outbreak.

Dr. George W. McCoy, director of the hygenic laboratory, again warned the public to "Keep away from parrots in order to avoid possible infection." He said he expected more cases of the disease to be reported for several days, but that the outbreak should pass shortly.

WHAT PENALTY FOR A MURDER?
By NEA Service

London—Petty crimes in England are still punishable by huge fines or lengthy prison terms reminiscent of the Dark Ages.

For using a canceled stamp in mailing a letter the minimum fine is $75 and a prison term; smuggling is fineable to more than $120,000, and of the amount fined, the informer gets 20 per cent.

For not closing his establishment on one-half day a week, a well-known draper in a midland town was fined more than $1000. The Royal Standard cannot be raised without the consent of Home Office authorities. She fine for this offense is $500.

Probably the most unusual fine was that taxed a sheephered who took his sheep across a road because all the forage on the one side was gone and the sheep were threatened with starvation. His fine could have been $5025, but the judge let him off with about $5 fine.

posed by the law enforcement commission is to be carried out with a view to precluding any conflict with states in making their own laws effective. That this is directly in the mind of those backing the revisions was assured today in well informed circles.

The day's discussions at the capitol centered largely on the question of the constitutionality of the commission's proposal to turn petty offenders over for trial by United States commissioners. Chairman Norris, of the senate judiciary committee, is one of those who has serious doubts of this proposal on the ground that it denies the constitutional guarantee to a trial by jury.

Tariff Holds Senate

In the senate, where fierce debate on prohibition is expected, no heed whatever was given today to the Hoover recommendations as the tariff debate proceeded.

Senator Norris said the judiciary committee might consider the dry problem at its regular meeting next Monday but he warned that bills would have to be introduced first. Senator Jones, of Washington, the administration dry leader, was ready to study bills proposed to carry out the recommendations made by that administration.

Election Issue?

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, has pending a resolution asking President Hoover to direct his law enforcement commission to report on the "suitability" of the prohibition laws. He probably will wait until the whole subject comes before the senate before pressing his suggestion.

Some senators were of the belief that the prohibition situation had been accentuated as an issue in the approaching election.

Floods Menacing River Lowlands

low places in the dyke. In the low places the water had mounted to within six inches of the top. Engineers in charge of the levee were confident tonight that the situation was in hand.

In Mississippi, Cold Water river—one of the streams giving most concern—was reported today at a higher stage than during the floods of 1927. Flooded lowlands have demoralized highway traffic.

At Clarendon, on the White River, it was expected that a number of mills will have to close down if the river reaches its predicted stage of 32 feet.

NEAR DANGER LINE

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 14 (AP)—Indiana's rivers and creeks, swollen by heavy rains and melting snows, spread out today over farm lands bordering on their courses and cut menacingly into protective levees. Residents of cities and towns along the rising streams looked forward hopefully to a cold wave predicted for tomorrow expecting it would ameliorate the flood conditions.

Persons living in the lower valleys of the Wabash and White rivers were most affected. The Wabash, which rose to 24 feet at Vincennes during the disastrous flood of 1913, stood at 23.1 feet this afternoon. Higher levees, however, are expected to protect the city against the present encroachment of the river. A break in a levee north of Vincennes late last night caused the Wabash to recede slightly but the rise was resumed today. The United States weather bureau said that the break in the levee made it impossible to forecast the stage which the stream would attain at Vincennes.

Blocks Roads

White River was far out of its banks in the vicinity of Indianapolis and police were called to take several marooned families from their homes in nearby suburbs.

The high water has blocked many highways throughout the state.

Lansing—The state utilities commission Tuesday denied an application of the Kohler Aviation company, operating between Milwaukee and Grand Rapids, for approval of a $20,000 stock issue consisting of 4,000 shares at $5 par. The commission said that the company already has $90,000 stock outstanding at $2.81 par and that the blue sky law prohibits the sale of securities at a price in excess of their book value.

The recent attempt to compel children in Persian public schools to wear clothes made of Persian materials has failed.

HOOVER JABS OPPONENTS IN RECENT NOTE

this point. Recently in saying farewell to the American delegation to the London naval conference, the president expressed the hope that in the meantime the country would exercise patience and that the work might proceed "free from criticism."

This is the type of appeal which President Wilson made in 1918, when he thought he saw the partisans gathering strength to defeat his program of peace even before the peace conference was called, and it remained his belief until his death that partisan efforts prevented the ratification of the covenant of the League of Nations.

Mr. Coolidge may have felt the criticism of his opponents but he never exhibited the slightest sign of it. The national capital has always regarded it as one of the episodes of battle that criticism and attack should be employed in a sort of give and take fashion but it must be conceded that since the Wilson administration it became more or less a practice to bait the president.

The Democrats who now occasionally indulge in that kind of strategy usually defend their tactics by remarking that they learned most of their lessons from the Republican minority in the last two years of Mr. Wilson's regime.

Appeal Awakens Sympathy.

It is unlikely that Mr. Hoover's missive to Dr. Thompson will soon be forgotten, for it carries a note of appeal which is calculated to awaken a wide sympathy for the man who tries to ignore politics but finds himself, nevertheless, enmeshed in its vicissitudes. Mr. Hoover's belief that the great majority of the people wish him success, irrespective of party, is corroborated by letters received by him almost daily. In the first year of an administration this is particularly true. The disposition of the public is to give every president a fair chance and as his tasks grow larger and responsibilities greater they exhibit a corresponding patience. Experience, however, shows that this attitude does not always last and that somewhere midway in his first term a president faces a critical decision on the part of the public. He either retains his majority or loses it.

The congressional elections of 1910 carried a warning as to what happened in 1912. Similarly the loss of congress in 1918 was a forerunner of Democratic defeat in 1920. The congressional elections of 1930 will be an index of what may be expected in 1932.

Meanwhile it is significant to note that Mr. Hoover has taken a leaf out of the experience of Andre Tardieu, French premier, who recently was able to retain a majority in the French chamber of deputies by reminding his hearers of a famous sign frequently displayed in American frontier dance halls: "Don't shoot the piano player, he is doing the best he can." This Humorous remark made it easier for Monsieur Tardieu to get a vote of confidence and the letter to Dr. Thompson, while perhaps not intended as a plea for public support, will nevertheless probably have that effect.
